Rain Could Cut Attendance

County's Annual Fair Set For Finale Today, Sunday

By PAUL YOUNG
LISBON — Directors of the Columbiana County fair glanced from leaden skies to the gates this morning as light rain fell steadily.
They left it up to Southern Local high's marching band to blow away the clouds for the final afternoon of horse racing and the evening show featuring Tex Ritter, the singing cowboy, and his band.
Pony-pulling contests began in the rain, but on the infield thrall than on the track. Horsemen said they will race if at all possible.
DIRECTORS estimated Friday's attendance at 15,000. Spectators overflowed the grandstand and lined the race track rail last night for Johnnie King's Death Dodgers. The auto thrill show raised thick clouds of dust in each of the 28 roaring events.
The show was late getting started as attorneys worked until the last moment clearing legal entanglements. A Coshocton couple had filed a lawsuit against King, claiming $3,115 due on a promissory note.
The county's 122nd annual exposition will close Sunday evening with a horse show beginning at 6.
Senior Citizens will form a choir for a church service in the grandstand at 10:45 a.m.
A BAND concert at 1:30 will feature high school units from Beaver Local, Southern Local, Leetonia, Columbiana and West Branch. Twirling groups will perform and the Lisbon Humettes will present a home talent variety show.
An analysis of the steer sale Wednesday reveals that IGA stores in the county purchased 16 of 88 head. Salem Foods, Inc. (Salem IGA and Salineville IGA) bought the grand champion and one of the reserve champions and other IGA stores purchased 14 animals.

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — A 56-year-old man suffering from arthritis told Columbia police Friday he robbed a city bank of $500 figuring that "if I robbed a bank and got caught, they'd take care of me."
Roland Edward Harper was charged with robbing a Citizens and Southern National Bank branch.
City Det. Capt. Harry Snipes quoted Harper as saying: "I've got arthritis so bad I can't hardly walk. I can't get a job. I figured prison would be a home with food and medical care."
Witnesses said the robber waited in the bank parking lot for police to arrive. All $500 was recovered.
If convicted, Harper could get five years to life in prison.

Fair To End This Evening At Hookstown

Approximately 1,500 attended the Hookstown Fair Friday night. The four-day event will end tonight at the grounds along Route 168 just south of Hookstown.
Judging was held in the halter class Friday afternoon. A blue ribbon was awarded to William Miller of Chester R. D. for his horse "Duke," who is 32 and has participated in every Hookstown Fair for the last 21 years.
Today horse-pulling contests were held in the morning and afternoon. Klein's Attractions will present entertainment at 4 and 8 p.m. and the South Side High School band will play at 7.
A machinery and livestock parade will be held at 7:30 and a program will be presented by the Kester School of Dancing at 8:30. Prizes will be awarded at 10:30 p.m.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's 107th General Assembly squared off again today for the final round of action on major bills leading to an extended recess early next year.
Leaders looked to the rare Saturday session for final agreement on big measures raising taxes, appropriating more funds for schools, increasing benefits for Ohio's unemployed and injured workers, and pouring money into the state's industrial development program.
"We're pushing to get out of here," Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray R-3 Miami said after a grueling day Friday that included:
—Senate passage of a bill listing a series of permissive taxes for counties. Democrats fought the measure on grounds the GOP administration was "passing the buck" of unpopular taxes to county commissioners. The bill went back to the house for action on Senate amendments today.

—A six-member conference committee went to work late Friday night on the administration's tax hike-education bill carrying $300 million in additional funds for education this biennium. The bill was defeated but later revived by the House but in the process, lost an immediately effective emergency clause which would delay school foundation supplements and teacher pay raises until December.
At mid-morning today backers of the bill said it appeared they could not muster votes to enact the school bill with an emergency clause for immediate effectiveness.
—The House approved a Senate bill raising the benefits of unemployed workers about 10.3 per cent but added amendments that sent it to Senate-House committee.
—The House Government Operations Committee mulled over a November ballot proposal to redistrict the legislature to meet U.S. Supreme Court mandates for districts virtually equal in population.
—The Senate was scheduled to vote today on a House-approved bill increasing workers' compensation benefits by an average of about 14 per cent.
—Senate leaders left in the wings what Democrats called a companion to the permissive taxes bill. The House-passed proposal would phase out the intangible personal property tax on farmers over a period of six years and reduce assessment rates on retail inventories in the same tax from 70 per cent to 50 per cent over three years.
Senators engaged in one of the most heated debates of the session on the permissive taxes package with Democrats accusing the administration of "passing the buck by making county commissioners levy taxes the state should levy."
Sen. Charles J. Carney D-33 Youngstown was most outspoken among the opponents.

He assailed Gov. James A. Rhodes for "showing no leadership but instead going off to pull taffy, eat popcorn, judge cows, and auction off bulls."
"Rhodes is giving the government back to the people. That's just lovely dandy," Carney said, and added: "But it's the county commissioners, most of them Democrats, who will have to take the political consequences of these new taxes."
Senate Minority Leader Theodore M. Gray R-3 Miami joined the debate after Minority Leader Frank W. King D-11 Toledo asserted the state should "meet its responsibility to levy taxes and distribute them to counties on the basis of need."
Gray called the bill "a monumental step in solving the problems people have" and added that "the further you go from home the more attrition you have in your tax dollar."

2 Charged With Spying For Russia

Army Sergeants Are Arrested For Alleged Espionage
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Army sergeants, both veterans with spying for Soviet agents.

Staff Sgt. Leonard J. Safford, 30, originally from Fort Pierce, Fla., and Sgt. I. C. Ulysses L. Harris, 37, from Sicily Island, La., were arrested last Saturday and Sunday respectively, but the arrests were not announced until Friday.
The two Soviets allegedly involved have left the country and won't be allowed back in, the Defense Department said. They were identified as Nikolai Fedorovich Popov and Anatoliy Tikhonovich Kireyev. Popov was with the Soviet Embassy in Washington, Kireyev with the Soviet Union's mission at the United Nations in New York.
The alleged spying occurred while Safford, a 12-year Army veteran, was administrative supervisor at the Strategic Communications Command Facility in nearby Suitland, Md., and Harris was with the Signal Corps at Ft. Monmouth, N.J. Both had top-secret clearance.
The Army charges that on Dec. 8, 1966, Safford asked a soldier, Robert A. Cook, to photograph military equipment at an Army installation in Roslyn, Va., across the Potomac River from Washington.
Safford received a camera from Popov last June 3 during a meeting in a Washington restaurant, the charges said, and then delivered unidentified

22 Civilian Passengers Killed Bus Sabotaged By Reds; More Bridges Are Ripped

SAIGON (AP) — Communist saboteurs blew up a bus and killed 22 civilian passengers today 12 miles from a rally where South Vietnam's presidential candidates were speaking.
The bus was on a main provincial road near the populous Mekong delta city of My Tho. It was the third such incident in the past few days.
At My Tho, campaigners for the Sept. 3 election included the military presidential aspirant, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, for the first time. This had been widely publicized in advance.
The My Tho area is heavily infested by guerrillas and the roads around it have been a special target of the Viet Cong recently. The timing of today's blast was a reminder of the Communists' continuing efforts to disrupt the election campaign.
Ground fighting continued in a lull and heavy weather restricted air raids on North Vietnam Friday.
In the last 24 hours, the Communists have blown up eight bridges near Da Nang, wounded a subdistrict police chief and another policeman with a grenade in Saigon and wounded several members of a combat-youth team in an attack on a delta post 56 miles below Saigon.
A Vietnamese spokesman said a hamlet chief was murdered Friday night by guerrillas dressed in Vietnamese army uniforms.
In one area not obscured by bad weather, U.S. Navy jets from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf attacked North Vietnam's main naval base at Port Walt, 30 miles from Red China, for the third time in five days. Air Force pilots were able to strike supply lines and a military training center in North Vietnam's southern panhandle.
The U.S. Command said U.S. pilots flew 146 missions and twice sighted Communist MIGs in the air. The pilots said the MIGs streaked back into cloud cover and there were no dog-fights.
Heavier air raids earlier in the week cost 13 American planes downed, approaching the Vietnam war's one-week record of 15. No additional plane losses were reported today.
Headquarters listed six Americans killed and 46 wounded in scattered ground fighting in South Vietnam.
In the largest reported actions, U.S. soldiers of Task Force Oregon killed 29 Commu-

U.S. Nazis Promise To 'Carry On'

Former No. 4 Man Of Party System Charged In Murder
ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — Police held the former Nazi firebrand accused of slaying party chief George Lincoln Rockwell under heavy guard today while Rockwell's heir apparent vowed "we will carry on."

Rockwell, 49, founder of the American Nazi party, was killed in his car Friday by two cleanly placed shots as he was leaving the parking lot of a small shopping center.
Five hours later, police charged 29-year-old John C. Patler, former No. 4 man in the small party's hierarchy, with murder. Bond was set at $50,000.
Matthias Koehl, second in command to Rockwell, told newsmen: "I don't know of anyone who can fill his shoes... but we'll all do everything we can to carry on."
Koehl said Patler was expelled from the party last April because of his "Bolshevik leanings." He had been a member of the group which directs its hate toward Negroes and Jews, almost since its founding in 1958.
Rockwell once described Patler as the party's propaganda minister and Patler edited the organization's magazine "Stormtrooper" until early this year.
Arlington County police strengthened the guard at the county jail. When Patler was driven from an interrogation room across a courtyard to the jail Friday a policeman armed with a shotgun stood on the roof.
Patler, also of Arlington, was to appear in court Monday to determine the date of his preliminary hearing. Mrs. Helen Lane, an Arlington lawyer, was with Patler during his interrogation by police.
Rockwell was shot after leaving a coin-operated laundry in the shopping center, one block from party headquarters. The shots, fired from a low roof over

'Planned Assassination' Seen By Hong Kong Reds

HONG KONG (AP) — Hong Kong police said today the terrorist killing of a radio comedian who ridiculed Communist agitators indicates the Reds are switching from random bombings to a planned assassination campaign.
Authorities offered protection to anyone who has been threatened or feels he is in danger from Red terrorists.
A top-level Hong Kong official said earlier the government had done as much preparation as possible for opposing attempts to kill prominent persons in the British colony on Red China's southern coast.
Police formed a special squad to ferret out terrorists who have marked anti-Communists for death.
After popular Chinese comedian Lam Bun, 37, was turned into a human torch and fatally burned, Hong Kong Communist newspapers carried the boast of Red terrorists that they had executed Lam for ridiculing the Communists.
The "Underground Traitor-Executing Onslaught Headquarters" warned that others guilty of "similar crimes" would meet the same fate.
Lam's brother, Lam Kong-hoi, 28, was injured critically in the attack. Witnesses saw four terrorists running away after the attack, a police source said, but it was not known if the witnesses could identify the men.

A Look At Lord Thomson

Newspapers Are His Business

NEW YORK (AP) — Lord Thomson, the Canadian barber's son whose vast newspaper empire has just acquired a dozen more U.S. newspapers, once said that he left editorial policy to local editors because "I'm a businessman and newspapers happen to be my business."
That the man whose organization has just paid $72 million for the 12 dailies in the Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc. chain is a businessman, no one has ever questioned.
HIS PREVIOUS holdings have been estimated at more than $100 million, and he has operated more than 100 newspapers around the world. He once estimated his personal income at about $20 million a year before taxes.
But a man who has worked on a Thomson-acquired paper doubts that Thomson's interest in his newspapers is as strictly-business as he says it is.
"I don't think he's ambitious to editorialize," says this man, but he adds that Thomson keeps in close touch with the editorial side of the operation and "gets reports on everything."
Although he has done high-level interviews, including one with former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, his writing jobs have been rare because, as he said several years ago, "You've got to practice to be good and I just don't have the time."
At 73, vigorous and in apparent good health, Thomson is the active, full-time chairman of his huge chain, although his son, Kenneth, commands the North American group.
THE ELDER Thomson's stocky figure and round face—he has been described by a London newspaper as "a genial and ebullient Teddy Bear"—can be seen around the Times almost daily.
"He's still running the thing as he's always done," says one Thomson employee, "and as he expects to go on for some time."

Thomson's publishing career got started indirectly because of a radio venture. In North Bay, Canada, in 1931, he was trying to sell radios, when the depression caught him with a boxcar load of the sets, none paid for. And radio reception in the area was as poor as the economy.
Thomson borrowed most of the $1,800 needed for a radio transmitter and set up his own radio station in a theater's unused dressing room. He doubled as announcer, disc jockey and salesman, broadcast news and music and selling air time. Soon he sold his radio sets.
TWO YEARS later he opened two other radio stations in Timmins and Kirkland Lake, Canada. In 1934, the Timmins Station, CKGB, got in a feud with the local newspaper, the Timmins Press, and Thomson wound up buying the newspaper for $6,000—$200 down and $200 a month.
Thomson bought more radio stations, but his first big news paper purchase came in 1944, when he paid $800,000 for a group of four Ontario dailies.
At 59, when he purchased another Canadian paper and "got no kick out of it at all," he moved on to Scotland, land of his father's forbears. He bought the Scotsman of Edinburgh, then a string of five Scottish weeklies, and got the license for Scotland's first commercial television station.
He acquired London's Sunday Times (unrelated to the Daily Times) in 1959 along with the rest of Britain's giant Kemsley group.
But his acquisition of the Daily Times he called "the greatest privilege of my life."
Thomson was elevated to peerage by Queen Elizabeth II in 1964, becoming the first Canadian-born peer in a generation.

Five Americans were missing after a helicopter crash in a mountain river near Kontum in the central highlands. Rescue crews from two other helicopters pulled a Red Cross girl and three soldiers safely from the swirling waters.

Stricken by engine trouble, the helicopter crashed in a spot where the river is about 200 feet wide with deep jungle on both banks.

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — A 56-year-old man suffering from arthritis told Columbia police Friday he robbed a city bank of $500 figuring that "if I robbed a bank and got caught they'd take care of me."

Although he has done high-level interviews, including one with former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, his writing jobs have been rare because, as he said several years ago, "You've got to practice to be good and I just don't have the time."

At 73, vigorous and in apparent good health, Thomson is the active, full-time chairman of his huge chain, although his son, Kenneth, commands the North American groups.

THE ELDER Thomson's stocky figure and round face—he has been described by a London newspaper as "a genial and ebullient Teddy Bear"—can be seen around the Times almost daily.

"He's still running the thing as he's always done," says one Thomson employee, "and as he expects to go for some time."

Thomson's publishing career got started indirectly because of a radio venture. In North Bay, Canada, in 1931, he was trying to sell radios, when the depression caught him with a boxcar load of the sets, none paid for. And radio reception in the area was as poor as the economy.

Thomson borrowed most of the $1,800 needed for a radio transmitter and set up his own radio station in a theater's unused dressing room. He doubled as announcer, disc jockey and salesman, broadcast news and music and selling air time. Soon he sold his radio sets.

TWO YEARS later he opened two other radio stations in Timmins and Kirkland Lake, Canada. In 1934, the Timmins Station, CKGB, got in a feud with the local newspaper, the Timmins Press, and Thomson wound up buying the newspaper for $6,000—$200 down and $200 a month.

Thomson bought more radio stations, but his first big news paper purchase came in 1944, when he paid $800,000 for a group of four Ontario dailies.

At 59, when he purchased another Canadian paper and "got no kick out of it at all," he moved on to Scotland, land of his father's forebears. He bought the Scotsman of Edinburgh, then a string of five Scottish weeklies, and got the license for Scotland's first commercial television station.

He acquired London's Sunday Times (unrelated to the Daily Times) in 1959 along with the rest of Britain's giant Kemsley group.

But his acquisition of the Daily Times he called "the greatest privilege of my life." Thomson was elevated to peerage by Queen Elizabeth II in 1964, becoming the first Canadian-born peer in a generation.

Fairest Of The Fair

Queen Adds Luster To Ohio State Exposition

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An 18-year-old blue-eyed blonde from Lebanon in Warren County, Anne Murrell, is the 1967 Ohio State Junior Fair Queen.

Miss Murrell competed against 58 girls Friday which saw 61,256 persons going through the fair's turnstiles.

Fair officials, predicting a record-breaking weekend crowd, are keeping an eye on the weather. The weatherman predicts a 20 per cent chance of showers today.

But attendance thus far indicates anything but false optimism. The fair broke its opening day attendance Thursday with 191,000 passing through the gates.

This year's attendance for the first two days is 252,256—some 2,000 better than last year's record. What's more, officials say this margin will mushroom this weekend.

Today's program is dedicated as Youngstown Day, Farm-City Day, Grange Day, and State Square Dance Day. Free grandstand performers are Andy Williams, the Harmonaires, Sonny and Cher and the WLW Midwestern Hayride.

Beauty contests were not the only state attractions. There were other blue-ribbon winners, including:

Dan Eversole, 16, Baltimore, Ohio, first prize for his 1,000 pound Hereford steer.

Belinda Myers, 14, Sabina, first-place trophy winner in the barrow show.

James Bratton Jr., Mowrytown, champion exhibitor at the poultry show.

In the junior division of the market lamb show, a crossbred wether owned by Nick Fisher of Bucyrus, topped 365 entries. Robert Ford, 19, Rushsylvania, exhibited the grand champion pen-of-three wethers. His lambs are purebred Dorsets.

Rockwell

a barber shop, struck him in the head and chest. He fell out of the right side of the 10-year-old, rusted car, soap powder mixing with his blood.

On the seat were his trademarks, a corn-cob pipe and sunglasses.

Patler was arrested 45 minutes later, a half-mile from the scene. Police would not say if a weapon had been found or whether he had made a statement.

"I haven't done anything, this is a nightmare," he said to reporters as he was led, manacled, into police headquarters.

Patler often was in the forefront of Nazi party harrasing activities and it brought him a long string of arrests.

On June 8, 1964, he leaped to the platform at a Washington meeting where Mississippi Negroes told of shootings, beatings, bombings they had suffered.

"You're a bunch of filthy swine," he cried. "You're trying to force white Americans to your will."

He changed his name from John Patsalos in 1960, married a 19-year-old girl, and was discharged honorably from the Marines in the wake of a party rally at which he was arrested.

Patler wrote later, "Enormous pressure was exerted by the Jew war veterans and I once again found myself in the middle of a battle on account of my political beliefs."

When Patler was five, his father shot and killed his wife and was sent to Sing Sing prison. On his release, the father battled in court with his grandmother for custody of John and his younger brother, George.

Patler once wrote, "I learned early that the only way you stop terrorism and force is with superior terrorism and superior force."

That might sum up Rockwell's philosophy too. Rockwell, in lectures at college campuses, said often, "I am a racist."

The Sept. 1 issue of a part publication, "White Power," shows a drawing of Rockwell that has him saying: "Let me show you how we can smash nigger power... we need a national white gang."

Rockwell, who identified Adolf Hitler and claimed he could recite every word of Hitler's book "Mein Kampf" (My Battle), advocated "transporting all Negroes to Africa, stripping Jews of property and sterilizing them."

He was in the Navy in World War II and during the Korean War and attained the rank of commander before he was released from active duty in 1964. The Navy discharged him from the reserves in 1960 because of his conduct.

Rockwell refused to say how many members were in the party, but knowledgeable people said it has fewer than 100 members. The headquarters, in Arlington, is on 23 acres and less than 10 miles from the nation's capital.

Ironically, the last Rockwell publication, "Rockwell Report," headlines "Assassin Misses Commander."

"Over the past eight years, I have been attacked regularly in various ways, from gasoline bombs to gunfire," he wrote. "But most of the attacks have been very poorly planned and hastily executed, causing little damage."

He then told of a shot from ambush as he stopped the car at an obstruction placed in the driveway of his "barracks."

Rockwell was a commanding figure and a persuasive speaker. He sought publicity, good or bad.

Part of his plan for taking over, he told an interviewer for Playboy magazine, was "just raising hell to keep people aware that there's such a thing as the American Nazi party, not caring what they call us, as long as they call us something."

He told people he would be elected president in 1972 on a Nazi party ticket. His campaign platform, he said, would be: "I'm going to completely separate the black and white races and preserve white Christian domination in this country, and I'm going to have the Jew Communists and any other traitors gassed for treason."

Man To Face Charges For Gun Duel Bid

Wellsville police have filed tentative charges against a Wellsville man who allegedly tried to taunt his 14-year-old stepson into a gun duel at their home early this morning.

Lawrence (James) Carson, 31, of 410 10th St., has been charged with intoxication, disorderly conduct and threatening in a menacing manner following his arrest by Patrolman Charles Amato at 9:25.

According to police reports, Carson had been drinking and was involved in a heated argument with his wife, Jean Carson, 39, when her son, Roger Allen, interceded.

Carson reportedly went to an upstairs closet and removed a .22-caliber rifle and a 16-gauge shotgun, offered the gun to the youth and ordered the boy to "shoot it out."

When the boy refused and went downstairs to join his mother, Carson reportedly followed and again attempted to spark the duel.

Another child ran next door and called police.

Amato saw Carson in the living room wielding the fully-loaded rifle. After seizing the weapon and arresting Carson, Amato took him to jail. It was later learned that eight additional live shells remained in the weapon. Police later returned for the shotgun.

Further charges are expected to be filed in Juvenile and Common Pleas Court later. Carson is being held while an investigation continued.

The pigs were reported on the east edge of the city when police officers decided to give up after an eight - hour chase.

In February, the Pentagon charged, Harris requested Willie K. Fletcher, also a soldier, to put him "in contact with an agent of the Soviet Intelligence Service." Harris then met Popov at Neptune, N.J., for instructions and met with Kireyev in Freeport, N.Y. May 27, the Army said. The charges gave no details about Harris' alleged activities.

The Army also did not amplify on the roles of Cook and Fletcher but said they were not charged in connection with the spying.

The statement at one point referred to "others" involved in the alleged conspiracy but did not elaborate on this point.

Boy Receives Hearing After Incident Here

A city juvenile, charged with resisting arrest, curfew violation and suspected of breaking and entering a 4th St. home, was scheduled for a hearing before a county juvenile officer today.

Police reports said the 16-year-old boy was spotted by Patrolman Dwight Garvey near the intersection of Peach Alley and Summit Ln. and then taken into custody by Lt. Paul A. Burson Jr. and Patrolman David Huff.

The youth is alleged to be the one who broke into the home of Warren Jackson of 707 E. 4th St., Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Helen Laughlin of 6th Ave., Lacroft, notified officers about 3:31 p.m. yesterday, that she entered her father's home shortly before. She explained she is looking after the property while the family vacations in Florida. Upon entering the house, she told police she heard a noise upstairs.

When she opened a closet door she found a neighbor boy hiding. Mrs. Laughlin ran to telephone police, but the youngster fled.

A check of the home indicated three cans of beer and an undetermined quantity of liquor had been consumed and a pipe lit. It was still burning on a table, authorities noted.

A straight razor and hunting knife were found wrapped in a suit coat in the closet where the youth was hiding. A beer can was found upstairs, the contents of which were thrown on a bed. The hunting knife apparently was used to cut the bed spread, sheets, blanket and a mattress.

A rifle was found in the cellar hallway. Mrs. Laughlin said it is usually kept in the upstairs closet.

A pair of binoculars apparently taken by the youth were returned by his mother.

Entrance apparently was gained by going through an open cellar window and forcing an upstairs door with the spit from a barbecue. The boy's parents, police found, have a barbecue grill in the back yard and the spit was missing from it.

The juvenile's arrest came about 4:46 a.m. when Garvey spotted the boy running up some stairs in the alley.

Burson said the youth fled from them twice and was cited for curfew violation and resisting arrest.

After he was informed of his rights in the presence of his father, Burson's report stated, the boy told officers he would not answer any questions without an attorney.

He was ordered held for the hearing before the juvenile officer.

The youth is alleged to be the one who broke into the home of Warren Jackson of 707 E. 4th St., Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Helen Laughlin of 6th Ave., Lacroft, notified officers about 3:31 p. m. yesterday, that she entered her father's home shortly before. She explained she is looking after the property while the family vacations in Florida. Upon entering the house, she told police she heard a noise upstairs.

When she opened a closet door she found a neighbor boy hiding. Mrs. Laughlin ran to telephone police, but the youngster fled.

A check of the home indicated three cans of beer and an undetermined quantity of liquor had been consumed and a pipe lit. It was still burning on a table, authorities noted.

A straight razor and hunting knife were found wrapped in a suit coat in the closet where the youth was hiding. A beer can was found upstairs, the contents of which were thrown on a bed. The hunting knife apparently was used to cut the bed spread, sheets, blanket and a mattress.

A rifle was found in the cellar hallway. Mrs. Laughlin said it is usually kept in the upstairs closet.

A pair of binoculars apparently taken by the youth were returned by his mother.

Entrance apparently was gained by going through an open cellar window and forcing an upstairs door with the spit from a barbecue. The boy's parents, police found, have a barbecue grill in the back yard and the spit was missing from it.

The juvenile's arrest came about 4:46 a. m. when Garvey spotted the boy running up some stairs in the alley.

Burson said the youth fled from them twice and was cited for curfew violation and resisting arrest.

After he was informed of his rights in the presence of his father, Burson's report stated, the boy told officers he would not answer any questions without an attorney.

He was ordered held for the hearing before the juvenile officer.

Saratoga National Historical Park has a monument to a wounded leg but not its owner, the National Geographic says. A stone slab bears a relief of Maj. Gen. Benedict Arnold's boot and epaulet, symbolizing his victory against the British at the Battle of Saratoga. A shot fractured Arnold's leg in the battle. The memorial bears no name because Arnold later betrayed America to the British cause.

Rockwell

a barber shop, struck him in the head and chest. He fell out of the right side of the 10-year-old, rusted car, soap powder mixing with his blood.

On the seat were his trademarks, a corn-cob pipe and sunglasses.

Patler was arrested 45 minutes later, a half-mile from the scene. Police would not say if a weapon had been found or whether he had made a statement.

"I haven't done anything, this is a nightmare," he said to reporters as he was led, manacled, into police headquarters.

Patler often was in the forefront of Nazi party harrasing activities and it brought him a long string of arrests.

On June 8, 1964, he leaped to the platform at a Washington meeting where Mississippi Negroes told of shootings, beatings, bombings they had suffered.

"You're a bunch of filthy swine," he cried. "You're trying to force white Americans to your will."

He changed his name from John Patsalos in 1960, married a 19-year-old girl, and was discharged honorably from the Marines in the wake of a party rally at which he was arrested.

Patler wrote later, "Enormous pressure was exerted by the Jew war veterans and I once again found myself in the middle of a battle on account of my political beliefs."

When Patler was five, his father shot and killed his wife and was sent to Sing Sing prison. On his release, the father battled in court with his grandmother for custody of John and his younger brother, George.

Patler once wrote, "I learned early that the only way you stop terrorism and force is with superior terrorism and superior force."

That might sum up Rockwell's philosophy too.

Rockwell, in lectures at college campuses, said often, "I am a racist."

The Sept. 1 issue of a part publication, "White Power," shows a drawing of Rockwell that has him saying: "Let me show you how we can smash nigger power... we need a national white gang."

Rockwell, who idolized Adolf Hitler and claimed he could recite every word of Hitler's book "Mein Kampf" (My Battle), advocated "transporting all Negroes to Africa, stripping Jews of property and sterilizing them."

He was in the Navy in World War II and during the Korean War and attained the rank of commander before he was released from active duty in 1954.

The Navy discharged him from the reserves in 1960 because of his conduct.

Rockwell refused to say how many members were in the party, but knowledgeable people said it has fewer than 100 members. The headquarters, in Arlington, is on 23 acres and less than 10 miles from the nation's capital.

Ironically, the last Rockwell publication, "Rockwell Report," headlines "Assassin Misses Commander."

"Over the past eight years, I have been attacked regularly in various ways, from gasoline bombs to gunfire," he wrote. "But most of the attacks have been very poorly planned and hastily executed, causing little damage."

He then told of a shot from ambush as he stopped the car at an obstruction placed in the driveway of his "barracks."

Rockwell was a commanding figure and a persuasive speaker. He sought publicity, good or bad.

Part of his plan for taking over, he told an interviewer for Playboy magazine, was "just raising hell to keep people aware that there's such a thing as the American Nazi party, not caring what they call us, as long as they call us something."

He told people he would be elected president in 1972 on a Nazi party ticket.

His campaign platform, he said, would be: "I'm going to completely separate the black and white races and preserve white Christian domination in this country, and I'm going to have the Jew Communists and any other traitors gassed for treason."

East side residents were startled to see three wild javelinas running through the area.

The pigs were reported on the east edge of the city when police officers decided to give up after an eight - hour chase.

documents to the Soviet diplomat at suburban shopping centers in June and July.

In February, the Pentagon charged, Harris requested Willie K. Fletcher, also a soldier, to put him "in contact with an agent of the Soviet Intelligence Service." Harris then met Popov at Neptune, N.J., for instructions and met with Kireyev in Freeport, N.Y. May 27, the Army said. The charges gave no details about Harris' alleged activities.

The Army also did not amplify on the roles of Cook and Fletcher but said they were not charged in connection with the spying.

The statement at one point referred to "others" involved in the alleged conspiracy but did not elaborate on this point.

Minor Mishaps Are Listed Here

No one was injured in two minor mishaps here Friday night.

About 5:45 p.m., police said, Ruth E. Moore, 59, of 507 John St. backed into the parked auto of Edwin Broadbent of 508 John St.

Mrs. Moore told officers she backed out of John St. onto May St. and struck the parked car. She was not cited.

About 8:45 p.m., a collision occurred on W. 8th St. near the intersection of Shadyside Ave. Officers reported Albert V. Luckino, 16, of 506 12th St., Wellsville, was headed west and slowed to pick up a hitch-hiker when his auto was struck by one driven by Richard C. Conley, 40, of 963 St. George St.

Conley said Luckino pulled from Shadyside Ave. into the line of traffic and looked as though another vehicle was going to pull out so Conley swerved and in doing so struck the Luckino auto.

No citations were issued in either mishap.

Motorist 'Fair' After City Crash

An area motorist is in "fair" condition at City Hospital after an accident about 7:42 a. m.

Glenn Mercer, 36, of Westfield Rd. received a laceration of the face after the car he was driving struck a utility pole.

Witnesses said Mercer was headed north on Lisbon St., north of the intersection of Myler Rd. He attempted to pass another car, also headed north, apparently lost control and struck the pole, which was cracked and moved, officers reported.

The accident caused a southbound car to leave the highway, but that vehicle was not damaged.

Mercer's car was heavily damaged in the front end. Officer Kenneth J. Montgomery charged him with reckless driving.

Mice Prove Dirty Rats

PRIBOJ, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslav farmers hope the Lim and Uvac rivers will stop a horde of large, aggressive mice that have been eating their way across the country's croplands.

At one village recently the farmers were preparing for their wheat harvest one day but the next day there was virtually nothing left to reap—the mice had destroyed the wheat over night.

The mice have chewed up an estimated 90 per cent of the wheat, beans and potatoes in the Besnia area, and farmers complain that even cats won't challenge them. The government recently announced crop damage has exceeded $400,000 across a 10-mile front.

The unusually large propagation of mice this year has been blamed on the virtual extermination of martens and foxes, mice eaters.

Area Mishaps Leave 5 Hurt

Five were injured Friday in three accidents investigated by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon, one a car-pedestrian mishap on St. Clair Ave. Ext.

Christine Madison, 7, daughter of Mrs. Paul Madison, was treated at City Hospital for contusions of the chest and back when she was struck by a northbound auto driven by JoAnn A. Hager, 26, of 720 Garner Ave.

Officers said the girl darted into the path of the woman's 1962 sedan near the girl's home. The driver was not cited.

Two city residents were treated as the result of a smashup at the intersection of Routes 7 and 14 shortly before midnight yesterday.

The patrol said a car driven by William Davis, 47, of Substation Road, had stopped for a traffic signal when it was struck from behind by a 1957 sedan operated by Eugene A. Scala, 32, of New Galilee, Pa.

Injured were Eileen Davis, 41, a passenger in Davis' car, who was released after treatment for a possible neck injury, and Lois Gamble, 32, of Ft. Worth, Tex., also a passenger in the Davis car, who was released after treatment for a possible neck injury and leg contusion. Both were taken to City Hospital. Scala was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Earlier, a two-car collision on Route 7 at the intersection of Substation Road sent two West Virginia women to a Youngstown hospital.

The patrol reported a car driven by Lotus L. Nichols, 62, of 165 Garfield Ave., East Palestine, had halted for a stop sign at the intersection, but then proceeded on into a car operated by Elmer M. Hodges, 48, of Wheeling.

Damage Put At $1,200 In Freak Wreck

EAST PALESTINE — No one was injured but more than $1,200 in property damage resulted about 6 p. m. Friday on E. Taggart St. when an out-of-control car struck two parked vehicles and a gasoline pump.

The driver, William T. Whitehouse, 71, of Anderson, Ind., formerly of East Palestine, was arrested for reckless operation and fined $15 and costs by Mayor Robert Harding after police completed their investigation in the unusual chain of events.

Patrolman Jack Straley gave this version of the accident: Whitehouse, operating a 1959 sedan, was attempting to pull away from a parking space on the north side of Taggart St. in front of a service station. He first backed up, then, as his car left the curb, it struck a parked auto owned by Edward Thompson of East Palestine, went left of center and across the street into another parked car owned by William Taucher. After shoving the Taucher car over the curb, the Whitehouse car went backwards across the street, knocking over a pump at the service station.

Straley estimated damage to the Whitehouse car at about $500 and the Taucher car, a 1960 sedan, was demolished. The pump damage totaled about $200, police said.

Motorist 'Fair' After City Crash

An area motorist is in "fair" condition at City Hospital after an accident about 7:42 a. m.

Glenn Mercer, 36, of Westfield Rd. received a laceration of the face after the car he was driving struck a utility pole.

Witnesses said Mercer was headed north on Lisbon St., north of the intersection of Myler Rd. He attempted to pass another car, also headed north, apparently lost control and struck the pole, which was cracked and moved, officers reported.

The accident caused a south-bound car to leave the highway, but that vehicle was not damaged.

Mercer's car was heavily damaged in the front end.

Officer Kenneth J. Montgomery charged him with reckless driving.

Mice Prove Dirty Rats

PRIBOJ, Yugoslavia (AP)—Yugoslav farmers hope the Lim and Uvac rivers will stop a herd of large, aggressive mice that have been eating their way across the country's croplands.

At one village recently the farmers were preparing for their wheat harvest one day but the next day there was virtually nothing left to reap—the mice had destroyed the wheat over night.

The mice have chewed up an estimated 90 per cent of the wheat, beans and potatoes in the Besnia area, and farmers complain that even cats won't challenge them. The government recently announced crop damage has exceeded $400,000 across a 10-mile front.

The unusually large propagation of mice this year has been blamed on the virtual extermination of martens and foxes, mice eaters.

Area Mishaps Leave 5 Hurt

Five were injured Friday in three accidents investigated by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon, one a car-pedestrian mishap on St. Clair Ave. Ext.

Christine Madison, 7, daughter of Mrs. Paul Madison, was treated at City Hospital for contusions of the chest and back when she was struck by a north-bound auto driven by JoAnn A. Hager, 26, of 720 Garner Ave.

Officers said the girl darted into the path of the woman's 1962 sedan near the girl's home. The driver was not cited.

Two city residents were treated as the result of a smashup at the intersection of Routes 7 and 14 shortly before midnight yesterday.

The patrol said a car driven by Willard Davis, 47, of Substation Road, had stopped for a traffic signal when it was struck from behind by a 1957 sedan operated by Eugene A. Scala, 32, of New Galilee, Pa.

Injured were Eileen Davis, 41, a passenger in Davis' car, who was released after treatment for a possible neck injury, and Lois Gamble, 32, of Ft. Worth, Tex., also a passenger in the Davis car, who was released after treatment for a possible neck injury and leg contusion. Both were taken to City Hospital. Scala was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Earlier, a two-car collision on Route 7 at the intersection of Substation Road sent two West Virginia women to a Youngstown hospital.

The patrol reported a car driven by Lotus L. Nichols, 62, of 165 Garfield Ave., East Palestine, had halted for a stop sign at the intersection, but then proceeded on into a car operated by Elmer M. Hodges, 48, of Wheeling.

Expanding The Interstate System

A proposal by Sen. Clifford P. Case provides Congress with a chance to act with foresight in an area that has been ignored long enough.

Sen. Case is calling for expansion of the interstate highway system. Numerous similar bills have been introduced only to meet quick defeat.

The present 41,000 mile interstate system is due to be completed by the mid 1970s. Sen. Case asks for an additional 9,000 miles be authorized.

There is much evidence to support his position.

Highways across the nation are becoming more congested every day.

Where would we be today without the present interstate network?

National Safety Council statistics for 1966 show a death rate of 2.9 per 100 million miles of travel on interstate roads compared to 7.5 for all rural roads.

By far the most compelling selling point for additional interstate highways is its method of financing.

The government pays 90 per cent of total costs but not a single penny of federal funds comes from general revenue sources.

It all comes from the Federal Highway Trust Fund—and the money for that fund comes from highway users.

Funneled into the trust fund are revenues from taxes on gasoline, diesel fuel, tires, tubes, new trucks and buses, highway use for heavy vehicles, parts and accessories for trucks and buses and lubricating oil.

Taxes paid by highway users should be channeled right back into better, safer roads produced through the interstate system.

The general feeling seems to be that Congress will turn a deaf ear to the new proposal as it has so many others.

This would be a sad mistake and future motorists would inherit a new era of congestion and slaughter because of it!

A Taxpayer's Right

One of the sorry inconsistencies of the new West Virginia policy on education financial statements is the public suspicion it will arouse while teachers are attempting to improve their image.

Under a new regulation approved by the legislature in a "sleeper action, the fiscal report of boards of education lists the salaries of principals and teachers together, rather than separately according to classifications.

In prior years, the salary status of the Hancock County teachers and principals and others in the state were made clear in the regular reports.

The new policy, we believe, is an affront to taxpayers who pay the bills for their schools and who deserve to know how their tax money is spent. It is an affront to teachers who are seeking higher pay commensurate with their professional status, and whose arguments may be jeopardized by misunderstanding by the public.

Another inconsistency in the new policy is that it still permits separate public listing of the salaries of the superintendent, his assistant, bus drivers, custodians, cooks and other personnel. If it is permissible for them, why not the teachers?

In public school systems, in township, municipal, county, state and federal government, in any public program or institution, the total financial picture must be made clear to the citizens.

Democratic government is based on the full understanding by the voters of the needs of their community. If this understanding is not achieved, the programs, services, public employees and the voters suffer.

The War Story

The real story of why the Vietnam war goes on and on, with no sign of peace, isn't being told to the American people. Members of Congress in their speeches avoid it. Neither the White House nor the State Department mentions it. But the truth is that the major enemies of the United States are not being publicly identified before the world. The United Nations, too, though possessed of power fully to publicize the facts, maintains absolute silence.

For the enemies of the United States in the Vietnam war are not merely the North Vietnamese but the governments of the Soviet Union and Red China. They are supplying to North Vietnam billions of dollars' worth of arms and ammunition, planes, anti-aircraft equipment and other weapons of war — along with trained advisers and technicians. Yet the United States has neither declared a state of war nor formally explained to the world the source of the continuous aggression in South Vietnam.

EVERY GOVERNMENT in the far Pacific knows the facts about the Communist co-operation with the military forces of North Vietnam. Indeed, Australia, South Korea, the Philippines, New Zealand and Thailand have sent some of their own military forces to help repel the aggression, because they fear it will extend to their own territory, too.

Again and again, in the United States Senate, speeches have been made by well-intentioned senators who insist that the United States should "stop the bombings" and wait for "peace feelers" or "negotiations." Their assumption is that the government in Hanoi has a free hand and can do as it wishes. This is unrealistic. For authentic information is certainly available to those same senators about the vast sums which are being spent by the Soviet Union and Red China to prolong the war in Vietnam.

No attempt is being made, moreover, by the United States Government, through the press in this country or through friendly governments in Europe, to publicize the nature of the involvement of Moscow and Peiping in Southeast Asia. The public-opinion forums of the world are little used to help win the war in Vietnam.

Never before has such a conspicuous case of aggression gone unrebuked, either by an international organization like the United Nations or by spokesmen for individual governments. Maybe it's because neither the President of the United States nor the secretary of state has in any public utterance laid out the line all the facts. Nor has the House or Senate had before it any resolution condemning the acts of the Soviet Union and Red China in the Vietnam war.

Why is everybody in the Government afraid to speak out? In this country, the idea has been fostered that the Soviets and the Red Chinese must not be criticized, officially or unofficially, lest they "escalate" the war. The illusion is widespread that, if a makeshift peace comes in Vietnam, there will be no further troubles stimulated by either Red China or the Soviet Union.

THE AMERICAN people have been led to believe that they are participating in just a local war. Actually, they are engaged in a worldwide conflict, at times euphemistically called the "cold war" but with many "hot" spots in it. What the United States is really fighting is a defensive war in Asia. If aggression is triumphant there, similar wars would be initiated in this hemisphere, and the interests of this country would be adversely affected.

Evidence of the ambition of Moscow to dominate the world is to be found in what is happening in Cuba, where a million and a half dollars a day is being spent by the Russians to assist Castro, whose apparatus now has infiltrated many Latin-American countries and is plotting further revolutions against existing governments.

One of the tricks of the Soviet game is to emphasize from time to time ideological differences with Red China, so as to give the impression that Peiping and Moscow are at odds with each other. But facts in the possession of the American government show clearly that, so far as the Vietnam war is concerned, the Russians and the Red Chinese are truly allies, and are working coincidentally to accomplish the same ends.

It's strange that there should prevail in America today such an indifference to the real reasons why 12,600 American youths have lost their lives and 77,500 have been wounded in the Vietnam war.

Female Leadership Needed

It may be a man's world, but Senator Margaret Chase Smith does very well proving to the contrary. It would be ungentlemanly of this column to describe her as a veteran Senator. But she is. And an effective one, too.

The lady from Maine, for example, is on the Senate Committee for Armed Services, Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee and, naturally, on the Appropriations Committee.

The other day I asked her if a woman can become President of the U.S. Here is her reply just as she wrote it for this column:

WASHINGTON — "Where is the proper place of a woman?" is a question I have often been asked. It has been asked so many times in so many ways and by so many types of people that, of necessity, my answer has had to transcend the normal and understandable prejudice that a woman might have.

My answer is short and simple — woman's proper place is everywhere. Individually, it is where the particular woman is happiest and best fitted. This may seem to be an oversimplification, but it is a conclusion of mine that has been repeatedly reassured by my experiences in meeting people all over the world.

I think that it is a well-accepted fact that the final responsibility for wars is that of the people themselves — not of the leaders of nations. If we are ever to achieve permanent peace, it will stem from the will of the people themselves, rather than the genius of their leaders.

What do these observations have to do with the answer to what is the proper place of women? Simply this: America the peace leader of the world, has granted the greatest opportunity to the woman — and America's peace leadership stems directly from the influence and participation of American women in shaping the decisions of this country.

The traditional belligerency of most nations is in inverse ratio to the degree of freedom and recognition that the particular nation grants to women. Wherever you find the woman's voice granted even an approach to parity with that of the man's you will find a more peaceful nation.

IF THERE IS ANY ONE proper role for women today it is that of alert and responsible citizens in the fullest sense of the word. Citizenship is without sex. It makes no distinction between the rights and responsibilities of men and women — in America. Since the granting of suffrage to women, the only differential between men and women as citizens has been the availability and acceptance of leadership.

The question is where can women best serve. The answer is — everywhere: in the home as wives and mothers; in organized civic, business and professional groups; in industry and business, both management and labor; and in government and politics.

Perhaps the most lasting and basic influence of women is in the home. This might appear too obvious for mention. But it is too often that we overlook the obvious. The fight for decent conditions in communities, for improvement in food, housing, school, health and recreational facilities must be led by the women of the home — the wives and the mothers.

Much, if not most, of the past leadership of women in this country has come through civic organizations. The basic ingredient for this successful performance record has been the banding of women together in organized groups to give greater voice and more specific objectives to the interests and efforts of individual women.

Women have provided leadership in industry and business. This has been heavily on the management side for there is a dearth of women leaders in the ranks of labor. Labor unions need the balanced judgment of more women labor leaders.

Why is it that women have made such little progress in the field of politics which, ironically enough, was the very arena of their emancipation — the granting of suffrage? The answer lies greatly with the women themselves. In the first place, the meteoric rise of women in the business and professional fields stems greatly

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

My son has played football in the East Liverpool School system since the seventh grade. This is his senior year. Last Monday while practicing, he broke his leg.

I would like to thank the boys who played with him for their courtesy, good sportsmanship and their thoughtfulness.

Although I don't know where they learned it, not from their coaching staff for sure. As not a one of them has had the decency, manhood or courtesy to take five minutes of their precious time to wish my boy well.

And this is the kind of men we have to trust our boys to.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

This is a letter which I would like the public to read.

On Monday right in front of four little children their pet dog was killed by a woman speeding in a 35-mile zone. After she hit the dog she didn't slow down to see if he were alive or not.

This dog at one time was advertised in the paper as lost, and their grandpa paid $25 reward to get him back, and they were tickled to death. After that his wife died, and all he cared for was the little dog.

The dog was 14 and was good to the children. When their grandpa went to work, the dog would wait for him and greet him when he returned; when he was off, they went out together, the dog riding in the car just like a child.

But this week there was a 2-year-old baby just about screaming her head off when she witnessed the awful scene. Their grandpa went over and picked him up, and there was a very nice young fellow who came by and gave us the number of the auto.

The boy thought it was terrible because the woman kept right on driving as if nothing happened. So we got in touch with the police, and they located the woman, but she denied everything.

Well, it is all over now. We brought him home and buried him. My oldest son took flowers and put them on his grave. So you can see the dog was well loved by these children.

And as for myself, it is not right to do this to what people say are dumb animals. They aren't dumb, they are just as smart as some people, although they can't read or talk.

But they aren't dumb in my book. This is all I have on this matter, but some people should consider that a dog is supposed to be a man's best friend, not to be run down by a speeding car.

Sour Note

Winchester Cathedral may inspire song writers, but it alarms engineers. They say the English church's 900-year-old pillars are rotten to the core.

Inspectors have found that the supposedly rock-hard center of one massive pillar crumbles at a touch. Three other supports dating from Norman times are suspected of the same internal weakness.

The present-day architect of Winchester Cathedral blames the defects on jerry-building. "Perhaps," he speculated, "the workmen were just having an off day and forgot to put in the lime or something."

The Normans finished the original cathedral in 1093, but their engineering skill did not match their pety. Only 15 years later, the great central tower collapsed, a disaster that probably weakened the pillars.

Winchester is typical of many other great English cathedrals endangered by the ravages of time and modern hazards, such as air pollution and traffic vibration. More than a dozen cathedrals are engaged in major repair and restoration projects, the National Geographic Society says.

Odd Facts

The distinction of being the largest United States city in area is claimed by Oklahoma City. Following some 300 annexation ordinances in recent years, the Oklahoma capital covers about 631 square miles.

Canada's Northwest Mounted Police staged a 1,000-mile march along the United States border in 1874 in a show of force against the outlaws of the American Wild West.

The group of American citizens, 65 years of age or older, is now increasing twice as fast as the total population.

Why is it that women have made such little progress in the field of politics which, ironically enough, was the very arena of their emancipation — the granting of suffrage? The answer lies greatly with the women themselves. In the first place, the meteoric rise of women in the business and professional fields stems greatly from the plain fact that women had the desire for participation and success in these fields. They had sufficient determination to translate that desire into results.

TO A GREAT EXTENT, men have encouraged rather than opposed the participation of women in business and professions. Initially, women served their apprenticeship in secretarial jobs. The secretarial duties expanded into executive duties, and before the men realized it, they had come to rely so much upon their women assistants that they could not do without them and had to accept them in the executive field rather than let them go.

The shadings of development and promotion cannot be as subtle in politics for there is nothing subtle about being a candidate for political office. The old prejudice of men against women is given full warning for resistance. Immediately when a woman candidate announces, the male cry is that "public office" is no place for a woman or "the state is not quite ready for a woman in that office." When asked "Why?" the answer is invariably that "she can't hold her own with the men" or "she can't neglect her home duties for her public office duties."

Performances disprove the negative phrase of "no place for a woman." There are many examples of women officeholders who have more than held their own with men. All women in the Congress are outstanding members of most important Congressional committees. There are plenty of examples of women public officials who have successfully maintained their homes and reared their children. A man legislator's division of his professional time as a lawyer oddly enough is never challenged.

WHETHER OR NOT there is a future in politics for women depends upon the women themselves. If they have the sufficient desire and determination not only to hold public office but to organize politically and vote in blocks and elect qualified women candidates, then there is most definitely a future in politics for women. The inescapable fact is that they hold the control of the public offices with their majority voting power.

Will they exercise that power? I think they will if they are made to realize that they hold the power. Organized women's power has been forcefully proved. If the incentive is there.

Basically, the incentive and the attraction of more women in higher public office should stem from the fundamental fact that women are the governors of the home. They legislate the rules of the home; they execute and enforce the rules of the home and they interpret the rules of the home. The importance of their role as governors of the home is that the home is the most fundamental form of government. Our community governments are no more than a federation of individual home governments.

There has been too little of the home in the government and too much government in the home. The most obvious and natural way to reverse this trend is to put more of the home governors in the government — and that means women.

That is why there is a definite and inescapable future in politics for women. It is only a question of time — only a matter of how long the men oppose women holding public office and, more important, how long the women themselves are guilty of such political inertia as not to overcome the opposition of the men.

Evidence of the ambition of Moscow to dominate the world is to be found in what is happening in Cuba, where a million and a half dollars a day is being spent by the Russians to assist Castro, whose apparatus now has infiltrated many Latin-American countries and is plotting further revolutions against existing governments.

One of the tricks of the Soviet game is to emphasize from time to time ideological differences with Red China, so as to give the impression that Peking and Moscow are at odds with each other. But facts in the possession of the American government show clearly that, so far as the Vietnam war is concerned, the Russians and the Red Chinese are truly allies, and are working coincidentally to accomplish the same ends.

It's strange that there should prevail in America today such an indifference to the real reasons why 12,600 American youths have lost their lives and 77,500 have been wounded in the Vietnam war.

Chinese Red Plot Poses Complicated Puzzle For Mexican Police—Tortilla Or Not Tortilla

By ROBERT POPP

DAWN WAS BREAKING over Mexico City when Don Sancho Piazza walked hurriedly along El Plaza Reforma, dressed unobtrusively in a chartreuse trench coat, a green beret and yellow sneakers. He turned into a doorway marked with a huge red neon sign: "Secret Police."

Don Sancho unlocked the door to his private office, flipped the light switch and then stretched out on a leather couch, cupping the microphone of a dictating machine in his hand.

"Type three copies for the minister of the interior, two for the files and one each for True Detective and Playboy Magazine," he said in a pre-and escaped south across the Rio Grande by pretending he was looking for survivors of Gen. John J. Pershing's expeditionary force.

"I CONFIRMED his ancestry by confronting him unexpectedly on the sidewalk, shouting 'Geronimo' and holding an Indian head nickel directly under his eyes. He replied immediately 'E Pluribus Unum,' a Navajo phrase which, freely translated, means: 'If I had change for a nickel, I would never have left the reservation!'"

"I trailed another suspicious character to Acapulco and nearly lost him when he vanished into the lobby of one of those huge hotels that overlook the bay. But the resident agent for the CIA, called away from a conference on the beach, helped me by supplying a 30-foot length of rope and a burglar's disguise. He persuaded me that the easiest way to locate the suspect was to lower myself from the hotel roof until I spotted the man I was trailing.

"All went well until I tied one end of the rope around the hotel's chimney and prepared to lower myself over the side. The house detective grabbed me and told me I was guilty of attempting to perform the Indian rope trick without a license.

"He tied the rope around my ankles and lowered me over the side, chortling: 'I have given you a suspended sentence.'

"As dawn broke four hours later, I was spotted by the occupant of the suite, a North American who stood on his head first to make certain that the law of gravity had not been repealed during the night and it was he—rather than I—who was upside down. Then he called the house dick.

"I had to pay a $37 bill at the desk before the detective would let me go. He told the clerk to charge me for an outside room and added: 'Collect this bill in cash, although I don't believe this man is the footloose type.' Laughing at his own little joke, he allowed me to keep half the little messages inside might provide some sort of clue. But it was no dice—all fortune cookies. We investigated all the Chinese checker games in Chiapas State in a vain effort to catch our unknown adversaries in a false move.

"I took a taxi back to Mexico City, but unfortunately the driver was not aboard. This caused a theft report to be filed with the civil authorities and led to several complications with the Rurales. (Drop an anonymous note to the police to explain that the cab may be found behind the little cantina known as Hasta la Televisa. Advise them the motor was missing. I don't know who stole it.)

"Now we turn to the explanation of the relentless investigation by the Secret Police that led to the arrest of these dastardly plotters.

"ONE OF THE plotters, victim of a heavy cold, went to the office of a physician in Guadalajara seeking treatment. Unknown to him, the doctor also was suffering from coryza.

"You have a bad code," he said and took a meaningful look at the Little Orphan Annie cryptographic device on his patient's finger. Thinking he had been trapped by some black machinations, the patient babbled out the whole tale of his involvement. Then he and the physician exchanged favorite cold remedies and the suspect went off to jail.

"Another member of the ring was involved in an innocent game of Monopoly with three of his friends when he drew the card which reads: 'Go directly to jail, do not advance past go, do not collect $200.' He, too, surrendered himself, thinking he had been trapped in a CIA plot.

"A third suspect was nabbed without equivocation when he entered a shop to buy a Chinese Red teapot made by the Hall China Co. of East Liverpool, Ohio, U.S.A. He confessed the significance of his attempted purchase and then admitted his part in the plot.

"A fourth was turned in by his compatriots when he shouted 'Hey Mao,' upon viewing a photograph of the Chinese leader. His fellow conspirators thought it was meant as a reference to the storage space for dry animal forage used by the North Americans.

"By this time we had learned that there were 14 men involved in the plot, which was financed by the $1,680 a month from the Red Chinese. After a little quick mental arithmetic, we knew where to locate the other 10.

"Everyone was on the rolls of the Mexico City relief department, complete with names and addresses. They could not live on the $120 a month the Chinese government paid them!"

face for his secretary. "Title them all: 'The Masterful Solution of the Chinese Plot Against the Republic of Mexico.'"

Then he pulled a notebook from his trench coat pocket and flipped through the pages to refresh his memory of the last three days.

"I was assigned to this case after our director received clandestine reports that a band of desperate, wily, unprincipled scoundrels had been hired by Red China to overthrow the government and set up a Communist regime," he dictated. "I am happy to report that all 14 of the ring are safely behind bars, have confessed fully and are about to be deported to Southern California as undesirables. The following is a summary of my investigation:

"AS THE FIRST phase of my undercover check, I immediately made a thorough study of the Chinese restaurants in the Federal District, but I found they were operated exclusively by Italians and Armenians—expatriates from places like Hoboken and Hokokus. Next I looked into all the Chinese laundries, but I discovered to my chagrin they've been converted to those automatic machines that gobble pesos and spit soap suds on the floor.

"In one I discovered a young lady of obvious Oriental parentage, gowned like the Tiger Lady in 'Terry and the Pirates.' As I admired her almond eyes, she turned quietly and remarked seductively: 'I have a yen for you.'

Then she pressed a Japanese banknote into my hand and walked out the door. When I finally discerned her meaning, she had vanished into the crowd outside. I mention this incident only to cite one of the many baffling aspects of this case. I never was able to find a tortilla vendor who could change the yen into pesos, even at a discount.

"I started this investigation knowing only that $1,680 a month was being sent into the Republic through the New China News Agency for some unknown purpose or project.

After learning that the news agency spends only an average of 20 pesos a month on cable tolls, 100 pesos on beer and 150 pesos on bullfight tickets, I deduced that it was spending large sums for clandestine purposes. The chief of the bureau writes a weekly column called 'It's a Gas,' using the pseudonym, 'Hi Octane.' His wife is named Ethyl.

But we dropped our investigation of him after establishing that he is a Navajo Indian who fled from an apprenticeship in a native pottery factory in Window Rock, Ariz.,

the rope as a souvenir. He sent the other section back to the CIA agent on the beach marked: 'Half a rope is better than none.'

TAKING ANOTHER TRACK, I placed a small want ad in the Tampico Times, with the cryptic wording: 'Secret for sale. Write P. O. Box 007, Tampico.'

Then I asked the want ad salesman to be certain it appeared in the fifth column—just as an added touch. But the only reply was a postcard with a message, 'That's My Line' and it was signed 'Katie Winters.' It must have been the work of a double agent. I'm still investigating this angle.

"We mustered our entire bureau next to search all the incoming shipments of Chinese fortune cookies, thinking

Area Servicemen In Vietnam

By LIDA SMITH

Monday is to mark the beginning of a rest and recuperation week in Tokyo for an East End infantryman stationed south of Quan Loi, Vietnam.

Army Pfc. Roger Wise, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wise of Michigan Ave., will be "in the hundreds" in the countdown of days for return home his mother said.

He is looking forward to coming back, he said, to renew friendships and to return to work at the Earl Anderson farm at Black Hawk, where he had worked for six years before leaving for the service. Roger hopes to own a farm of his own, a dream that is shared by his fiancée, Miss Sheila Bleigh of Alpha St.

Wise sold his horse, "Mike," before he joined the service. Miss Bleigh owns a horse, "Cocoa." It is not unusual to see Cocoa tied to the fence surrounding the Wise home, Mrs. Wise said, because Sheila is a frequent visitor on "horseback."

WISE IS SERVING with the infantry, which guards various bases. He goes on patrol for days at a time and "walks a lot," he said.

His parents are avid campers, and many of his letters refer to their camping trips.

"That was a pretty card that you sent from up in 'Dutch country.' I got your letter today and was glad to hear from you. You said you had been out to Guilford Lake and that the weather turned cold. You sure have had some crazy weather this summer."

The war for him was momentarily forgotten in an incident related in a recent letter.

"We moved to another place yesterday. We started to dig in and hit water. We dug in mud and water until it got about knee deep. We bailed the water out and it ran back in as fast as we took it out. It was funny!"

Pfc. Roger Wise takes a Vietnam break.

"So, we just took off our boots and socks and shirt and rolled our pants legs up and got into the hole and kept on digging. There was mud squishing between my toes. The general came by while we were like that. He stopped and talked for awhile. He had to laugh at the way we looked."

"When we got it half done, it poured down rain. We got soaked! We were running around jumping in water holes. You can't believe some of the things we do!"

IN ANOTHER letter he wrote, "I stayed back today. I am glad it was my turn to stay. They are walking a long way today. They say we're supposed to get a long rest when we get back; I sure hope so."

"A sergeant came around while I was writing this. He said, 'Is your weapon clean?' and I said yes. He wanted to see it. I gave it to him and he couldn't find a thing wrong with it. He checked two or three other things we were supposed to do. When I said they were done he just turned around and walked away."

"I hope your garden is doing well. I will miss the tomatoes and corn and all. I guess I won't die, but I do miss them. I sure wish I was home to help Earl (the owner

Tri-State Tour Tips

One of the nation's top summer amusement centers, Cedar Point is only one of the attractions making a drive to near the Lake Erie shore at Sandusky a delight for the entire family.

Constantly improved and expanded in recent years, Cedar Point now offers more than 100 rides on its funway, the world's largest summer resort hotel (1,000 rooms) and a mile-long sand beach perfect for children, and a marina. There is a fireworks display each Saturday night, when "name" dance bands also appear in the huge ballroom.

Entrance to Cedar Point is via a toll causeway off U.S. 6.

South on Ohio 269 at Castalia is Blue Hole, one of nature's fascinating phenomena.

An artesian spring of undermined depth, it flows at 7,500 gallons a minute, enough for a city of 75,000. But the water is "dead" (contains no air) and cannot sustain life until aerated.

The water is channeled around the grounds, which include an aerating wheel, trout hatchery and a pond where trout live in the rejuvenated water. Picnic facilities are available. Beautifully lighted at night, Blue Hole is open 7 a.m. to 11 p.m.; admission is 50 cents (Children under 12 free).

Further south on Ohio 269 near Bellevue is Seneca Caverns, with 10 rooms on eight levels reaching a depth of 165 feet. Tours take an hour. An underground river is said to feed Blue Hole 14 miles away. Tours are 8 to 5; admission is $1.75.

Milan, on U.S. 250, is the birthplace of Thomas A. Edison, whose home is excellently preserved and furnished. It is open to visitors Sunday, 1-5, Tuesday through Saturday, 9-5; admission is 25 cents (children under 6 free). The Milan Melon Festival will be held Sept. 2-4.

The Firelands Historical Museum at Norwalk (4 Case Ave.), displays Indian relics and guns, and exhibits from the Battle of Lake Erie. Hours are noon to 6 daily, except Monday; admission is 50 cents (children free).

The Columbiana County Motor Club suggests this routing to the tour area: From East Liverpool Route 7 to Ohio Turnpike to Exit 7 to Route 250 to Cedar Point Causeway.

But the resident agent for the CIA, called away from a conference on the beach, helped me by supplying a 30-foot length of rope and a burglar's disguise. He persuaded me that the easiest way to locate the suspect was to lower myself from the hotel roof until I spotted the man I was trailing.

"All went well until I tied one end of the rope around the hotel's chimney and prepared to lower myself over the side. The house detective grabbed me and told me I was guilty of attempting to perform the Indian rope trick without a license.

"He tied the rope around my ankles and lowered me over the side, chortling: 'I have given you a suspended sentence."

"As dawn broke four hours later, I was spotted by the occupant of the suite, a North American who stood on his head first to make certain that the law of gravity had not been repealed during the night and it was he—rather than I—who was upside down. Then he called the house dick.

"I had to pay a $37 bill at the desk before the detective would let me go. He told the clerk to charge me for an outside room and added: 'Collect this bill in cash, although I don't believe this man is the fooltype type.' Laughing at his own little joke, he allowed me to keep half the little messages inside might provide some sort of clue. But it was no dice—all fortune cookies. We investigated all the Chinese checker games in Chiapas State in a vain effort to catch our unknown adversaries in a false move.

"I took a taxi back to Mexico City, but unfortunately the driver was not aboard. This caused a theft report to be filed with the civil authorities and led to several complications with the Rurales. (Drop an anonymous note to the police to explain that the cab may be found behind the little cantina known as Hasta la Televisa. Advise them the motor was missing. I don't know who stole it.)

"Now we turn to the explanation of the relentless investigation by the Secret Police that led to the arrest of these dastardly plotters.

"ONE OF THE plotters, victim of a heavy cold, went to the office of a physician in Guadalajara seeking treatment. Unknown to him, the doctor also was suffering from coryza.

"You have a bad code," he said and took a meaningful look at the Little Orphan Annie cryptographic device on his patient's finger. Thinking he had been trapped by some black machinations, the patient babbled out the whole tale of his involvement. Then he and the physician exchanged favorite cold remedies and the suspect went off to jail.

"Another member of the ring was involved in an innocent game of Monopoly with three of his friends when he drew the card which reads: 'Go directly to jail, do not advance past go, do not collect $200.' He, too, surrendered himself, thinking he had been trapped in a CIA plot.

"A third suspect was nabbed without equivocation when he entered a shop to buy a Chinese Red teapot made by the Hall China Co. of East Liverpool, Ohio, U.S.A. He confessed the significance of his attempted purchase and then admitted his part in the plot.

"A fourth was turned in by his compatriots when he shouted 'Hey Mao,' upon viewing a photograph of the Chinese leader. His fellow conspirators thought it was meant as a reference to the storage space for dry animal forage used by the North Americans.

"By this time we had learned that there were 14 men involved in the plot, which was financed by the $1,680 a month from the Red Chinese. After a little quick mental arithmetic, we knew where to locate the other 10.

"Everyone was on the rolls of the Mexico City relief department, complete with names and addresses. They could not live on the $120 a month the Chinese government paid them!"

face for his secretary. "Title them all: 'The Masterful Solution of the Chinese Plot Against the Republic of Mexico.'"

Then he pulled a notebook from his trench coat pocket and flipped through the pages to refresh his memory of the last three days.

"I was assigned to this case after our director received clandestine reports that a band of desperate, wily, unprincipled scoundrels had been hired by Red China to overthrow the government and set up a Communist regime," he dictated. "I am happy to report that all 14 of the ring are safely behind bars, have confessed fully and are about to be deported to Southern California as undesirables. The following is a summary of my investigation:

"AS THE FIRST phase of my undercover check, I immediately made a thorough study of the Chinese restaurants in the Federal District, but I found they were operated exclusively by Italians and Armenians—expatriates from places like Hoboken and Hohokus. Next I looked into all the Chinese laundries, but I discovered to my chagrin they've been converted to those automatic machines that gobble pesos and spit soap suds on the floor.

"In one I discovered a young lady of obvious Oriental parentage, gowned like the Tiger Lady in 'Terry and the Pirates.' As I admired her almond eyes, she turned quietly and remarked seductively: 'I have a yen for you.'

Then she pressed a Japanese banknote into my hand and walked out the door. When I finally discerned her meaning, she had vanished into the crowd outside. I mention this incident only to cite one of the many baffling aspects of this case. I never was able to find a tortilla vendor who could change the yen into pesos, even at a discount.

"I started this investigation knowing only that $1,680 a month was being sent into the Republic through the New China News Agency for some unknown purpose or project.

After learning that the news agency spends only an average of 20 pesos a month on cable tolls, 100 pesos on beer and 150 pesos on bullfight tickets, I deduced that it was spending large sums for clandestine purposes. The chief of the bureau writes a weekly column called 'It's a Gas,' using the pseudonym, 'Hi Octane.' His wife is named Ethyl.

But we dropped our investigation of him after establishing that he is a Navajo Indian who fled from an apprenticeship in a native pottery factory in Window Rock, Ariz.,

the rope as a souvenir. He sent the other section back to the CIA agent on the beach marked: 'Half a rope is better than none.'

TAKING ANOTHER TRACK, I placed a small want ad in the Tampico Times, with the cryptic wording: 'Secret for sale. Write P. O. Box 007, Tampico.'

Then I asked the want ad salesman to be certain it appeared in the fifth column—just as an added touch. But the only reply was a postcard with a message, 'That's My Line' and it was signed 'Katie Winters.' It must have been the work of a double agent. I'm still investigating this angle.

"We mustered our entire bureau next to search all the incoming shipments of Chinese fortune cookies, thinking

Area Servicemen In Vietnam

By LIDA SMITH

Monday is to mark the beginning of a rest and recuperation week in Tokyo for an East End infantryman stationed south of Quan Loi, Vietnam.

Army Pfc. Roger Wise, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wise of Michigan Ave., will be "in the hundreds" in the countdown of days for return home his mother said.

He is looking forward to coming back, he said, to renew friendships and to return to work at the Earl Anderson farm at Black Hawk, where he had worked for six years before leaving for the service. Roger hopes to own a farm of his own, a dream that is shared by his fiancée, Miss Sheila Bleigh of Alpha St.

Wise sold his horse, "Mike," before he joined the service. Miss Bleigh owns a horse, "Cocoa." It is not unusual to see Cocoa tied to the fence surrounding the Wise home. Mrs. Wise said, because Sheila is a frequent visitor on "horseback."

WISE IS SERVING with the infantry, which guards various bases. He goes on patrols for days at a time and "walks a lot," he said.

His parents are avid campers, and many of his letters refer to their camping trips.

"That was a pretty card that you sent from up in 'Dutch country.' I got your letter today and was glad to hear from you. You said you had been out to Guilford Lake and that the weather turned cold. You sure have had some crazy weather this summer."

The war for him was momentarily forgotten in an incident related in a recent letter.

"We moved to another place yesterday. We started to dig in and hit water. We dug in mud and water until it got about knee deep. We bailed the water out and it ran back in as fast as we took it out. It was funny!"

Pfc. Roger Wise takes a Vietnam break.

"So, we just took off our boots and socks and shirt and rolled our pants legs up and got into the hole and kept on digging. There was mud squishing between my toes. The general came by while we were like that. He stopped and talked for awhile. He had to laugh at the way we looked."

"When we got it half done, it poured down rain. We got soaked! We were running around jumping in water holes. You can't believe some of the things we do!"

IN ANOTHER letter he wrote, "I stayed back today. I am glad it was my turn to stay. They are walking a long way today. They say we're supposed to get a long rest when we get back; I sure hope so."

"A sergeant came around while I was writing this. He said, 'Is your weapon clean?' and I said yes. He wanted to see it. I gave it to him and he couldn't find a thing wrong with it. He checked two or three other things we were supposed to do. When I said they were done he just turned around and walked away."

"I hope your garden is doing well. I will miss the tomatoes and corn and all. I guess I won't die, but I do miss them. I sure wish I was home to help Earl! (the owner of the farm at Black Hawk) with the harvest."

"We are guarding artillery. We have not done anything but catch up on our sleep, and we need it. Good Lord is that artillery ever loud! It seems as if it would bust your ears! I got letters from you and Dad yesterday. I sure enjoy letters from both of you. Dad writes a lot; it makes me feel good to know he thinks of me that often."

Wise, who received his basic training at Ft. Benning, Ga., and his advanced training at Ft. Polk, La., has reached the half-way point in his Vietnam tour. As he said, "from now on it's all down-hill rolling!"

The new stamp is twice the width of a horizontal commemorative. A perforation di-

The twin stamps go on first-day sale Sept. 29 at Kennedy Space Center — a branch of the Orlando, Fla., Post Office. Two days later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration marks its ninth anniversary.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Orlando, Fla. 32802. The covers will be serviced with a single stamp (5c) or pairs showing both designs (10c). The covers should be plainly endorsed in the upper right corner to indicate the number of stamps to be affixed. Postage stamps and personal checks are not accepted in payment of the new stamps. The envelope to the postmaster should be endorsed "First-Day Covers Space Stamps."

Tri-State Tour Tips

One of the nation's top summer amusement centers, Cedar Point is only one of the attractions making a drive to near the Lake Erie shore at Sandusky a delight for the entire family.

Constantly improved and expanded in recent years, Cedar Point now offers more than 100 rides on its funway, the world's largest summer resort hotel (1,000 rooms) and a mile-long sand beach perfect for children, and a marina. There is a fireworks display each Saturday night, when "name" dance bands also appear in the huge ballroom.

Entrance to Cedar Point is via a toll causeway off U.S. 6.

nons. An artesian spring of undermined depth, it flows at 7,500 gallons a minute, enough for a city of 75,000. But the water is "dead (contain no air) and cannot sustain life until aerated.

The water is channeled around the grounds, which include an aerating wheel, trout hatchery and a pond where trout live in the rejuvenated water. Picnic facilities are available. Beautifully lighted at night, Blue Hole is open 7 a.m. to 11 p.m.; admission is 50 cents (Children under 12 free).

Further south on Ohio 269 near Bellevue is Seneca Caverns, with 10 rooms on eight levels reaching a depth of 165 feet. Tours take an hour. An underground river is said to feed Blue Hole 14 miles away. Tours are 8 to 5; admission is $1.75.

Milan, on U.S. 250, is the birthplace of Thomas A. Edison, whose home is excellently preserved and furnished. It is open to visitors Sunday, 1-5, Tuesday through Saturday, 9-5; admission is 25 cents (children under 6 free). The Milan Melon Festival will be held Sept. 2-4.

The Firelands Historical Museum at Norwalk (4 Case Ave.), displays Indian relics and guns, and exhibits from the Battle of Lake Erie. Hours are noon to 6 daily, except Monday; admission is 50 cents (children free).

The Columbiana County Motor Club suggests this routing to the tour area: From East Liverpool Route 7 to Ohio Turnpike to Exit 7 to Route 250 to Cedar Point Causeway.

MORE ON GUILFORD LAKE. Ohio wildlife officials have indicated steps will be taken to rejuvenate Guilford for better fishing. I would like to suggest the state also take action to clearly define the public, or state, right-of-way around this body of water.

Fishermen are often crowded when there are many stretches of open shoreline available. The state owns a right-of-way completely around the lake, but many property owners over the years have cleared and mowed sections from their cottages or homes to the waters edge.

When fishermen attempt to cross over these sections, the owners become incensed and direct them to leave. There have been instances where property owners have erected no trespassing signs and some have even notified the sheriff's office of supposed violations.

State game lands are clearly defined by signs.

One sign states "Public Hunting Area" and another "Private property beyond this point."

Signs such as could clarify the situation at Guilford, because even some roads give the impression of favoring the property owners.

A case in point is a new road in the area of Red Maple Landing. An extension was made to an area that could be opened for public use. But, when the road reaches one property owner, it curves out around close to the water's edge and then returns. The area is fenced in, but it is clearly marked on property maps as being state land. Why a road would be built in this manner is beyond me. Does anyone have the answer?

THE FIGURES WERE CORRECT. I received three or four telephone calls regarding the figures on fish stocking at Guilford Lake.

To answer the question bluntly, "They are official. I did not pick them out of the air."

The figures were provided by Ed Badgley, District III fish management supervisor. He showed me the official stocking records and these were used in making the tally.

WIDELY SCATTERED rain has clouded the West Virginia fishing picture, the Department of Natural Resources reports.

The department said many stream conditions are expected to change due to rain, but predicted that most lakes would not be affected.

Sutton Lake was listed as six feet below normal and clear and the department said water was too low at Kanawha Run for skiing.

Fishermen have reported good catches at Moncove and Plum Orchard Lake with several large channel catfish striking at Sutton Lake, the department reported. Small-mouth and rock bass have also been striking at artificial lures in the Greenbrier.

Stream conditions by area:

EASTERN PANHANDLE — South Branch of Potomac, Shenandoah, Patterson Creek and Sleepy Creek Lake, all normal and clear.

EAST CENTRAL — East Fork, Greenbrier, West Fork Greenbrier, Little River and Shaver's Fork of Cheat River, all normal and clear.

CENTRAL — Tea Creek, Elk at Queen Shoals and Sutton, Sutton Lake tailwaters and Summersville Lake and tailwaters, all normal and clear; Williams River, normal and milky; Cranberry River, Elk at Webster Springs, Back Fork of Elk, Cherry River, low and clear.

SOUTHEASTERN — Anthony and Culverson Creek, normal and muddy; Greenbrier at Lewisburg and Bealeport, New River at Hinton, Moncove Lake at Union, Plum Orchard Lake at Mossy, New River at Ansted, normal and clear; Gauley River, normal and milky; Bluestone Lake, normal and murky, but should clear if rain subsides.

WESTERN — Little Kanawha near Elizabeth, Hughes River, Middle Island Creek; all normal and murky to muddy.

NORTHERN PANHANDLE — Fish Creek, Castleman's Run Lake, Bear Rocks Lake, Ohio River, all normal and clear.

FISHING CONDITIONS are good in most Ohio streams and lakes, with some good catches being reported in all areas, the Ohio Division of Wildlife reported Thursday.

The fishing conditions by areas:

CENTRAL OHIO—Delaware Wildlife Ponds—Number 23 pond, best for bass and bluegills. Hoover Reservoir—Water level remains low, fishing very slow. O'Shaughnessy Reservoir—Fair for catfish and bass on nightcrawlers and artificial lures. Indian Lake — Very few fish being caught, some channel catfish at night.

LAKE ERIE—Yellow perch averaging 8 inches being caught in good numbers on small minnows around Rocky Reef areas in deep water. Few walleyes in late evening hours near Toussaint, Crib, Niagara and West Reed areas. Some channel catfish and smallmouth bass taken in deeper water on large minnows and nightcrawlers. Freshwater drum continue to hit on live and artificial lures throughout the lake area.

NORTHWESTERN OHIO—Streams normal and clear. Few bass, some channel catfish, bluegills and bullheads taken. Harrison Lake — Fair for bass and bluegills. Nettle Lake—Some crappie on minnows. Charles Mill Reservoir—Few bass, some channel catfish. Pleasant Hill—Fair for bluegill, bass and catfish.

SOUTHWESTERN OHIO—Acton Lake—Fair bass on soft craws, some crappie on minnows. Stone Lake—Excellent for bass and crappie. St. Mary's — Fair Fishing for channel catfish, few crappie. Lorain—Bass on soft craws, Channel catfish on night-crawlers. Clark Lake—Water low few bluegills, some small perch. Grant Lake—Good sized bullhead, fair, also bluegills and carp.

SOUTHEASTERN — Piedmont—Few muskies. Dillon Reservoir—Water level remains low, fishing slow. Seneca—Good channel catfish few white bass. Jackson Lake—Good bass and bluegills. Hammett Reservoir—Fair bass, bluegills and perch. Forked Run—Few trout continue to hit. Burr Oak—Good fishing for bass, bluegills and redear sunfish. Channel catfish good in Muskingum and Scioto rivers.

NORTHEASTERN — East Branch Reservoir — Best for bass averaging two to four pounds. Magadore Reservoir—Fair for bass and bluegill, few muskie and perch. Mosquito Reservoir—best for bass, channel catfish, some walleye, few white bass. Clendenen—Bass, bluegill and catfish good. Lake Milton and Berlin Reservoir—Few walleyes, fair bass and crappie. Ladue—Good for bass.

Boys Play In Ohio Honor Guard

John Wardeska of Irondale, left, and Richard Householder of Hammondsville eye their All-Ohio Boys Band shirts which were issued at the Ohio Fair Youth Center at Columbus this week.

They are playing in the honor band at the fair this week, and will play for a statewide telecast to be hosted by movie and television star Pat Boone Monday.

The select 300-member boys band will be featured in a TV special, sponsored by Ohio Bell Telephone Co., Monday night at 8:30 on WSTV, Steubenville.

Mitchell Jones of 720 Price St., East Liverpool, clarinet player, is also a member of the band. Richard plays clarinet and John, bass clarinet.

The Verse Box

O the error that eludeth me,
I have very little doubt,
Is the first thing that The Man will see
When the paper doth come out.

That transposed line (which is SUCH fun!)
That price that's never right:
They won't be seen by anyone
'Till the paper's out tonight.

The little ad that won't get in —
The club that didn't meet —
Will not be seen by little nor big
'Till the paper hits the street.

And who will note the astronaut —
Or the awe in which he's held —

Or give serious thought to the missile shot,
If his name has been misspelled?

Or who'll observe, or who will gauge
The way our type's employed
If a fluff in the center of the page
Hath the whole effect destroyed?

Or who will read or who will heed
The editorial fine —
If it's a tool for ridicule
All for that silly misplaced line?

O Lord, who doth all creatures make,
(Plus the poor proofreader, too)
O let me find that bad mistake
Before it reaches The Review!

Food Refuge Restores Souls

By JAMES G. CROSSLEY

STEUBENVILLE — There was an accident in the mill. A giant machine had somehow snatched and crushed to death one of the workers.

Even though there were complex factors and it was not a case of negligence, the operator of the machine was shaken to the very essence.

What hand did he grasp? He went to see his friend Bob. At the Mill Men's Hostel he remained locked in deep conversation with Bob for four hours until he could bear to take up his life again and go home to face his family.

THIS RECENT incident dramatically illustrates a curious experimental program by the Methodist Church here in this steel city on the banks of the Ohio River.

Located in an ancient brick building at the very gates of one of the two mills it serves, the Mill Men's Hostel is a one - of - a - kind establishment.

The "Bob," actually Rev. Robert E. Henthorn, is no doubt the only Methodist minister in the world who six days a week turns the key in a former saloon at 5 a.m. First order of business, he snaps on two neon lights in the windows to inform the men going in and out the gate that the hostel is open for business.

It has been seven years since the hostel opened. There had been concern among local church people because the hundreds of mill men had nowhere to wait for car pool buddies at the plant gates except in the half dozen saloons doing business nearby.

The distances some of the men traveled and the staggered starting times caused by continuous processes resulted in a general necessity for loafing time with nowhere to go.

Church mission funds were obtained and Bob—none of his friends call him anything else—was taken from a church and assigned as director.

Coming from an industrial family, with an industrial background in his own early years and having had a number of war years overseas, he was ably suited.

The Mill Men's Hostel offers a hand from Christianity.

ON COLD winter days the hostel is a place to wait where it is warm. In summer's heat, the thick walls of the old brick building make it a cool sanctuary.

For five minutes or an hour, anyone, regardless of creed or background, may drop in.

On a self - serve table, a coffee pot is always plugged in and there is a plate of pastries. A handful of coins allows change - making.

There's a television, newspapers, magazines, book, Ping Pong and a pool table.

Near the front door is a small sign which reads, "These Facilities are Provided for Your Enjoyment by the Methodist Church."

Formal religion intrudes only in this sign, inspirational books and in a small, neat chapel in the rear with folding chairs and two heavy steel altar crosses (one made by employees of each of the two plants and used alternately.)

WHAT MAKES the experiment so poignant is that the religion which is dispensed is that of a kind believed to have been practiced by Christ himself as he went among the tax collectors, the fishermen and people of the street.

Bob or one of his lay assistants is there whenever the neon lights are glowing—that means until midnight—act as an example, to offer comradeship or advise and, particularly, to listen when anyone wants to talk. If the work situation in the mills is desperate as it frequently is, or a man's private life is fouled up to the point of despair, he knows that Bob is here ready to listen, for hours if necessary. He'll never be turned away. Just telling about it relieves the pain.

Is this experiment successful? About 300 a week use the hostel, depending on how the mills are working.

Reverend Henthorn, as one of the community's recognized "neutrals," is constantly in demand by both labor and management groups. For example, he is chaplain of an industrial management organization and chairman of the appeals board of a union.

It has meant some new members for local churches.

Rev. Henthorn has been a consultant for interested groups all over the country, although no similar mission has yet been established.

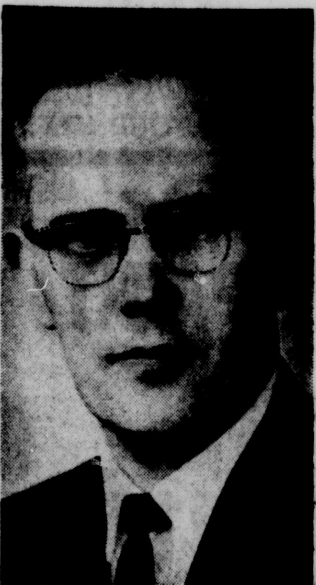

Surmounting everything, sitting quietly as a man pours out his anguish to "restoreth my soul" may be the only true gauge of the hostel's success.

WHAT THINK YE OF THE CHRIST?

Dr. Ray McCreight
Four-Mile U. P. Church

Text: Matthew 22:41-46.

REV. RAY MCCREIGHT

On each occasion when the Pharisees and Sadducees and the critics of Jesus asked questions of Him, Jesus knew well the question and the motive of the asker.

Earlier, He had silenced the questioning of the Pharisees by answering their foolish questions; now the disciples of the Pharisees approached Jesus and began to flatter Him. He quickly tore away the screen of flattery behind which they were hiding their hypocrisy and said, "Why make ye trial of me?"

They had asked a political question: "Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar or not?" The question was subtle and could have presented a dilemma to Jesus.

If He answered, "Yes, it is lawful," then as far as they were concerned, He would have been denying the fact that He was the Christ. If He had answered, "No, it is not lawful," He would have been in conflict with the civil authorities and they would have reported this to Rome and He could have been arrested.

Here Jesus not only answered with the truth, but silenced His critics. Asking for a coin. He inquired, "Whose image and superscription is on this coin?" When they answered without hesitation, "Caesar's," Jesus said, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God, the things that are God's."

IN TODAY'S world we have an obligation to the state and an obligation to our Lord. A good Christian is a good citizen as well as a good Christian.

Next came the Sadducees, who denied the resurrection, who tried to be religious but did not believe much in the supernatural. They felt when life in this world was over, there was nothing more.

To trick Jesus, they asked, "In the resurrection what this is the great and first commandment, and the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

HAVING SILENCED His critics, Jesus asked them a question, "What think ye of the Christ, whose Son is He?" When they answered, "David," Jesus asked, "How then doth David in spirit call Him Lord, saying, The Lord said unto My Lord, sit thou on my right hand till I make mine enemies Thy footstool? If David called Him Lord, how is He his Son?"

No one could answer, for in asking this question Jesus was asking about their understanding of the promised Messiah. They believed He would be the son of David, but were not looking for Him to be the Lord. Jesus, son of David, was also the Son of God.

His critics were willing to accept the fact He was the son of David, but not that He was the Son of God. Jesus had them on the spot as He quoted from the Scriptures which stated that David called Him the Messiah, his Son and also his Lord.

The Jews were looking for a different kind of Messiah, an earthly king, an earthly ruler, one who would break the yoke of Rome. Jesus came to break the yoke of sin; He came to be a heavenly ruler, a heavenly King, as He said, "My kingdom is not of this world."

THE JEWS of Jesus' day missed the Messiah because they were looking for the wrong kind of a king.

What think ye of the Christ, whose Son is He... the Son of the living God," can there be for us the promise of everlasting life in heaven and the forgiveness of sin.

The Apostle Paul instructed, "whosoever shall confess with his mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in his heart that God has raised Him from the dead, he shall be saved, for with the heart man believeth unto righteousness and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

The Verse Box

O the error that eludeth me,
I have very little doubt,
Is the first thing that The Man will see
When the paper doth come out.

That transposed line (which is SUCH fun!)
That price that didn't meet —
They won't be seen by anyone
'Till the paper's out tonight.

The little ad that won't get in —
The club that didn't meet —
Will not be seen by kith nor kin
'Till the paper hits the street.

And who will note the astronaut —
Or the awe in which he's held —

Or give serious thought to the missile shot,
If his name has been misspelled?

Or who'll observe, or who will gauge
The way our type's employed
If a fluff in the center of the page
Hath the whole effect destroyed?

Or who will read or who will heed
The editorial fine —
If it's a tool for ridicule
All for that silly misplaced line?

O Lord, who doth all creatures make,
(Plus the poor proofreader, too)
O let me find that bad mistake
Before it reaches The Review!

Diamond is the hardest material known to man — with the exception of the rolls served at Chamber of Commerce luncheons.

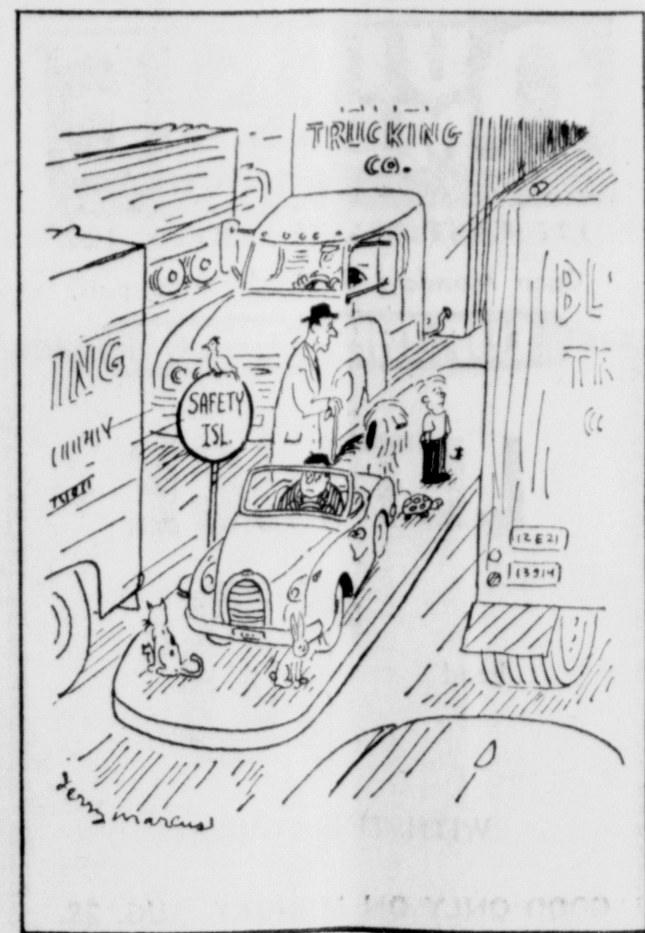

Just heard about the businessman who was being spied on by a competitor when he left the office. Just couldn't get rid of his 5 o'clock shadow.

And you might as well know about the ailing Hindu who applied for Sikh benefits.

Not to mention — but we will — the Bengal lancer who never spent a day in the army. He was a doctor.

WHAT THINK YE OF THE CHRIST?

Dr. Ray McCreight
Four-Mile U. P. Church

Text: Matthew 22:41-46.

REV. RAY MCCREIGHT

On each occasion when the Pharisees and Sadducees and the critics of Jesus asked questions of Him, Jesus knew well the question and the motive of the asker.

Earlier, He had silenced the questioning of the Pharisees by answering their foolish questions; now the disciples of the Pharisees approached Jesus and began to flatter Him. He quickly tore away the screen of flattery behind which they were hiding their hypocrisy and said, "Why make ye trial of me?"

They had asked a political question: "Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar or not?" The question was subtle and could have presented a dilemma to Jesus.

If He answered, "Yes, it is lawful," then as far as they were concerned, He would have been denying the fact that He was the Christ. If He had answered, "No, it is not lawful," He would have been in conflict with the civil authorities and they would have reported this to Rome and He could have been arrested.

Here Jesus not only answered with the truth, but silenced His critics. Asking for a coin. He inquired, "Whose image and superscription is on this coin?" When they answered without hesitation, "Caesar's," Jesus said, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God, the things that are God's."

IN TODAY'S world we have an obligation to the state and an obligation to our Lord. A good Christian is a good citizen as well as a good Christian.

Next came the Sadducees, who denied the resurrection, who tried to be religious but did not believe much in the supernatural. They felt when life in this world was over, there was nothing more.

To trick Jesus, they asked, "In the resurrection what this is the great and first commandment, and the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

HAVING SILENCED His critics, Jesus asked them a question, "What think ye of the Christ, whose Son is He?" When they answered, "David," Jesus asked, "How then doth David in spirit call Him Lord, saying, The Lord said unto My Lord, sit thou on my right hand till I make mine enemies Thy footstool? If David called Him Lord, how is He his Son?"

No one could answer, for in asking this question Jesus was asking about their understanding of the promised Messiah. They believed He would be the son of David, but were not looking for Him to be the Lord. Jesus, son of David, was also the Son of God.

His critics were willing to accept the fact He was the son of David, but not that He was the Son of God. Jesus had them on the spot as He quoted from the Scriptures which stated that David called Him the Messiah, his Son and also his Lord.

The Jews were looking for a different kind of Messiah, an earthly king, an earthly ruler, one who would break the yoke of Rome. Jesus came to break the yoke of sin; He came to be a heavenly ruler, a heavenly King, as He said, "My kingdom is not of this world."

THE JEWS of Jesus' day missed the Messiah because they were looking for the wrong kind of a king. What think ye of the Christ, whose Son is He... the Son of the living God, can there be for us the promise of everlasting life in heaven and the forgiveness of sin.

The Apostle Paul instructed, "whosoever shall confess with his mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in his heart that God has raised Him from the dead, he shall be saved, for with the heart man believeth unto righteousness and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

What think ye of the Christ?

The Mill Men's Hostel offers a hand from Christianity.

ber of war years overseas, he was ably suited.

ON COLD winter days the hostel is a place to wait where it is warm. In summer's heat, the thick walls of the old brick building make it a cool sanctuary.

For five minutes or an hour, anyone, regardless of creed or background, may drop in.

On a self-serve table, a coffee pot is always plugged in and there is a plate of pastries. A handful of coins allows change - making.

There's a television, newspapers, magazines, book, Ping Pong and a pool table.

Near the front door is a small sign which reads, "These Facilities are Provided for Your Enjoyment by the Methodist Church."

Formal religion intrudes only in this sign, inspirational books and in a small, neat chapel in the rear with folding chairs and two heavy steel altar crosses (one made by employees of each of the two plants and used alternately.)

WHAT MAKES the experiment so poignant is that the religion which is dispensed is that of a kind believed to have been practiced by Christ himself as he went among the tax collectors, the fishermen and people of the street.

Bob or one of his lay assistants is there whenever the neon lights are glowing—that means until midnight—act as an example, to offer comradeship or advise and, particularly, to listen when anyone wants to talk. If the work situation in the mills is desperate as it frequently is, or a man's private life is fouled up to the point of despair, he knows that Bob is here ready to listen, for hours if necessary. He'll never be turned away. Just telling about it relieves the pain.

Is this experiment successful? About 300 a week use the hostel, depending on how the mills are working.

Reverend Henthorn, as one of the community's recognized "neutrals," is constantly in demand by both labor and management groups. For example, he is chaplain of an industrial management organization and chairman of the appeals board of a union.

It has meant some new members for local churches. Rev. Henthorn has been a consultant for interested groups all over the country, although no similar mission has yet been established.

Surmounting everything, the compassion of this minister, sitting quietly as a man pours out his anguish to "restoreth my soul" may be the only true gauge of the hostel's success.

Riot-Started Blazes

Help Boost Fire Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — Fire losses in July were 15.6 per cent higher than in the same month last year, partly because of blazes started by rioters in Detroit, Newark, N.J., and other cities, it was disclosed Friday.

Estimated dollar losses from fires in July totaled $144,170,000, the National Insurance Actuarial and Statistical Association said. The association said the riots also contributed to an increase in July extended coverage losses—those caused by windstorms, explosions and the like—to $203,594,000, compared with $130,938,000 in June.

Revenue Service Asks $500,000 From Maloney

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service, charging former Pittsburgh police official Lawrence J. Maloney failed to report income of $645,000, is seeking to recover over $500,000 in income taxes in a civil action.

Donald W. Howser, assistant regional counsel for the IRS, said Friday the agency started the action in April. He said Maloney, former assistant superintendent of Pittsburgh police, failed to report the income from 1957 through 1963.

Maloney, acquitted in June, 1965, of criminal tax evasion charges, has petitioned U.S. Tax Court in Washington to nullify the IRS' notice of deficiency and denies failing to report any income during the seven-year period.

In its answer, the IRS said Maloney received the money for his "forbearance to enforce the criminal laws prohibiting numbers lotteries."

The answer says Maloney failed to report $454,750 paid to him by numbers writers, $163,200 paid him by unnamed persons and gifts valued at $27,400. The IRS is seeking $377,061 in income taxes and $188,530 for alleged willful evasion of the tax.

The IRS action claims a tax deficiency exists and plans to submit supporting evidence if no settlement is reached before trial.

Maloney faces trial in Allegheny County court on charges of bribery and extortion.

Maloney, 56, was suspended Dec. 18, 1964, after serving 12 years as assistant police superintendent.

Death Comes To Muni, A Film Perfectionist

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Once actor Paul Muni was congratulated by actress Merle Oberon for his role in a movie in which they both starred.

"I hear you were wonderful too," the intense perfectionist said to Miss Oberon.

"Oh," Miss Oberon said with surprise, "didn't you see the picture?"

"Yes," Muni replied, "but I only looked at myself."

Such attention to performance was attributed to a sense of showmanship—rather than to ego—in a long stage and movie career that won an Academy Award and much acclaim for Muni, who died Friday of a heart attack at his home in nearby Montecito.

The Austrian-born actor was 71.

The funeral will be held at 1 p. m. Tuesday in Hollywood Memorial Park chapel with burial in Beth Olam Cemetery.

Muni is survived by his widow Bella and two brothers.

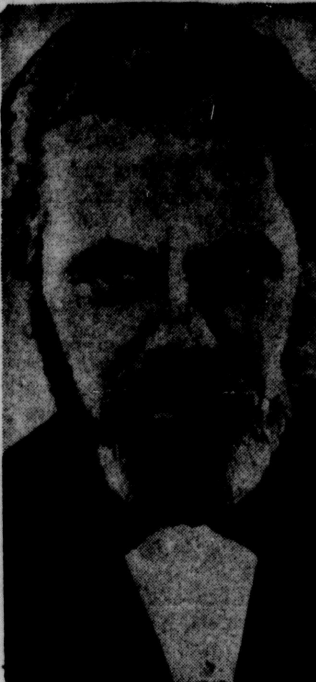

Although he lost his left eye because of a tumor in 1955, Muni made a successful comeback but lately had been in poor health.

His practice was to submerge himself in a role, especially such biographical portrayals as the title role in "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which won him an Academy Award in 1936.

Painstaking research—up to 20 hours a day—marked his life when he sought to duplicate the personality, appearance and mannerisms of Pasteur and other great men such as Emile Zola and Benito Juarez, whose lives he played.

His rise to stardom began in "Scarface" in 1928. He earned another Oscar nomination in "The Good Earth," but his favorite role was in the relatively overlooked "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang."

On Broadway, his credits included the lead of attorney

PAUL MUNI
In Role of Pasteur.

Clarence Darrow in "Inherit the Wind," a role he had to quit because of his eye operation. A week earlier it had earned him Variety's nomination as best actor of the year.

Muni was a puzzle to many fellow actors as well as the press, which he studiously avoided for the most part.

"I know people sometimes call me a 'maie Garbo,' Muni once said. "I am a nonconformist." He shrugged and added that even he couldn't figure out his moods, which were as varied as his roles.

Although he relaxed by playing the violin—which he learned at age four—he also loved boxing. He said he might have enjoyed being a fight manager if he hadn't chosen the theater.

He declined to make more than two pictures a year and his contracts provided at least six months for stage work between films.

'Matching Dresses' Become Cat's Meow In Dogs' World

NEW YORK (AP)—The fabulous creature in the silver, lame paper evening dress, blonde wig and thick, false eyelashes is:

A. A woman. B. A dog. C. Either one.

If you checked "C," you've probably visited Dogs of Distinction, Inc., a Manhattan pet shop whose latest creations are matching paper dresses for a dog and its mistress.

"At the moment the dresses come in eight different styles," says Estyne Del Rio, the shop owner. "The price range is $3.95 to $18 for the dresses for the lady and $1.69 to $3.95 for the dresses for the dog."

Miss Del Rio, a dancer and actress before she got into the pet-shop business last June because "I've always loved animals," says sales of the matching dresses are going well and that she hopes to expand the line. "It currently is heavy on polka dots, solids, stripes and silver and gold lame."

It's estimated that there are 25 million dogs in the United States, and that Americans spent an estimated $550 million last year buying them accessories.

For the woman who wants her dog to be really high-fashion, Miss Del Rio, a Chicago native also sells dog wigs. They're available in several colors and range in price from $5.95 to $14.95, depending on whether they're made of artificial fiber or human hair.

"You can't use animal hair," Miss Del Rio says. "The dogs would know the hair came from a dead animal and it would upset them."

For the dog lover who wants neither wig nor dress for her pet, the shop offers such items as a pink, dotted swiss granny bonnet at $3.50; a bright red snowsuit with bonnet at $12.95; or a pair of sunglasses at $1.98. For $250, a mink dog coat is available.

"For many women," says Miss Del Rio, "dogs take the place of children. They give the dog the same affection and love they would give a child."

Hearing Will Be Held In Hit-Skip Accident

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Winterville has charged an Empire man as the aftermath of a hit-skip accident at the intersection of Routes 7 and 213 in northern Jefferson County Wednesday night.

Nick Virginia, 46, of Harrison St. has been charged with driving left of center and leaving the scene of an accident following a two-car mishap in which his car allegedly struck a vehicle driven by Carmen Abdalla, 41, of Stratton, and continued on without stopping.

A hearing has been set in Toronto county Court Tuesday night.

The offer calls for Gulf & Western to exchange one share of a new, $100, par, three and seven-eighths per cent, convertible, preferred stock for each three shares of Bliss common. The preferred stock would be convertible to Gulf & Western common at a rate of $62.50 per common share.

The Canton-based Bliss has a worldwide employment of about 7,500 and is engaged primarily in production of rolling mills, presses, can-making machinery and other industrial products.

Gulf & Western has holdings in the auto parts, mining and entertainment industries.

Riot-Started Blazes

Help Boost Fire Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — Fire losses in July were 15.6 per cent higher than in the same month last year, partly because of blazes started by rioters in Detroit, Newark, N.J., and other cities, it was disclosed Friday.

Estimated dollar losses from fires in July totaled $144,170,000, the National Insurance Actuarial and Statistical Association said.

The association said the riots also contributed to an increase in July extended coverage losses—those caused by windstorms, explosions and the like—to $203,594,000, compared with $130,938,000 in June.

When you add that dash or pinch, make it less than 1-16 teaspoon.

Revenue Service Asks $500,000 From Maloney

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service, charging former Pittsburgh police official Lawrence J. Maloney failed to report income of $645,000, is seeking to recover over $500,000 in income taxes in a civil action.

Donald W. Howser, assistant regional counsel for the IRS, said Friday the agency started the action in April. He said Maloney, former assistant superintendent of Pittsburgh police, failed to report the income from 1957 through 1963.

Maloney, acquitted in June, 1965, of criminal tax evasion charges, has petitioned U.S. Tax Court in Washington to nullify the IRS' notice of deficiency and denies failing to report any income during the seven-year period.

In its answer, the IRS said Maloney received the money for his "forbearance to enforce the criminal laws prohibiting numbers lotteries."

The answer says Maloney failed to report $454,750 paid to him by numbers writers, $163,200 paid him by unnamed persons and gifts valued at $27,400. The IRS is seeking $377,061 in income taxes and $188,530 for alleged willful evasion of the tax.

The IRS action claims a tax deficiency exists and plans to submit supporting evidence if no settlement is reached before trial.

Maloney faces trial in Allegheny County court on charges of bribery and extortion.

Maloney, 56, was suspended Dec. 18, 1964, after serving 12 years as assistant police superintendent.

Death Comes To Muni, A Film Perfectionist

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Once actor Paul Muni was congratulated by actress Merle Oberon for his role in a movie in which they both starred.

"I hear you were wonderful too," the intense perfectionist said to Miss Oberon.

"Oh," Miss Oberon said with surprise, "didn't you see the picture?"

"Yes," Muni replied, "but I only looked at myself."

Such attention to performance was attributed to a sense of showmanship—rather than to ego—in a long stage and movie career that won an Academy Award and much acclaim for Muni, who died Friday of a heart attack at his home in nearby Montecito.

The Austrian-born actor was 71.

The funeral will be held at 1 p. m. Tuesday in Hollywood Memorial Park chapel with burial in Beth Olam Cemetery.

Muni is survived by his widow Bella and two brothers.

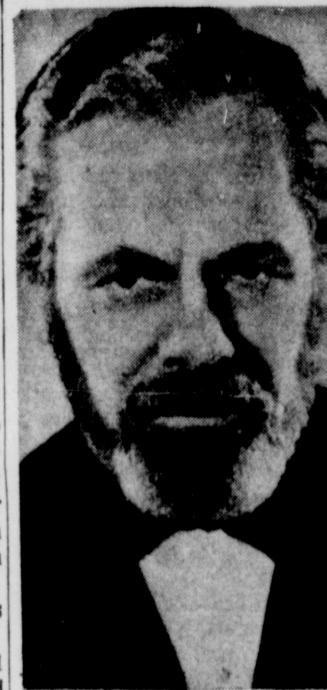

Although he lost his left eye because of a tumor in 1955, Muni made a successful comeback but lately had been in poor health.

His practice was to submerge himself in a role, especially such biographical portrayals as the title role in "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which won him an Academy Award in 1936.

Painstaking research—up to 20 hours a day—marked his life when he sought to duplicate the personality, appearance and mannerisms of Pasteur and other great men such as Emile Zola and Benito Juarez, whose lives he played.

His rise to stardom began in "Scarface" in 1928. He earned another Oscar nomination in "The Good Earth," but his favorite role was in the relatively overlooked "I Am a Fugitive on a Chain Gang."

On Broadway, his credits included the lead of attorney

PAUL MUNI
In Role of Pasteur.

Clarence Darrow in "Inherit the Wind," a role he had to quit because of his eye operation. A week earlier it had earned him Variety's nomination as best actor of the year.

Muni was a puzzle to many fellow actors—as well as the press, which he studiously avoided for the most part.

"I know people sometimes call me a 'male Garbo,' Muni once said. "I am a nonconformist." He shrugged and added that even he couldn't figure out his moods, which were as varied as his roles.

Although he relaxed by playing the violin—which he learned at age four—he also loved boxing. He said he might have enjoyed being a fight manager if he hadn't chosen the theater.

He declined to make more than two pictures a year and his contracts provided at least six months for stage work between films.

'Matching Dresses' Become Cat's Meow In Dogs' World

NEW YORK (AP)—The fabulous creature in the silver, lame paper evening dress, blonde wig and thick, false eyelashes is:

A. A woman. B. A dog. C. Either one.

If you checked "C," you've probably visited Dogs of Distinction, Inc., a Manhattan pet shop whose latest creations are matching paper dresses for a dog and its mistress.

"At the moment the dresses come in eight different styles," says Estynee Del Rio, the shop owner. "The price range is $3.98 to $18 for the dresses for the lady and $1.69 to $3.95 for the dresses for the dog."

Miss Del Rio, a dancer and actress before she got into the pet-shop business last June because "I've always loved animals," says sales of the matching dresses are going well and that she hopes to expand the line. It currently is heavy on polka dots, solids, stripes and silver and gold lame.

It's estimated that there are 25 million dogs in the United States, and that Americans spent an estimated $550 million last year buying them accessories.

For the woman who wants her dog to be really high-fashion, Miss Del Rio, a Chicago native also sells dog wigs. They're available in several colors and range in price from $5.95 to $14.95, depending on whether they're made of artificial fiber or human hair.

"You can't use animal hair," Miss Del Rio says. "The dogs would know the hair came from a dead animal and it would upset them."

For the dog lover who wants neither wig nor dress for her pet, the shop offers such items as a pink, dotted swiss granny bonnet at $3.50; a bright red snowsuit with bonnet at $12.95; or a pair of sunglasses at $1.99. For $250, a mink dog coat is available.

"For many women," says Miss Del Rio, "dogs take the place of children. They give the dog the same affection and love they would give a child."

Hearing Will Be Held In Hit-Skip Accident

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Winterville has charged an Empire man as the aftermath of a hit-skip accident at the intersection of Routes 7 and 213 in northern Jefferson County Wednesday night.

Nick Virginia, 46, of Harrison St. has been charged with driving left of center and leaving the scene of an accident following a two-car mishap in which his car allegedly struck a vehicle driven by Carmen Abdalla, 41, of Stratton, and continued on without stopping.

A hearing has been set in Toronto county Court Tuesday night.

Weather Note

CHICAGO (AP) — City officials picked an 81-degree day Friday to award a $1.2 million contract for 80 diesel dump trucks with snow and salt spreader attachments.

Contract Okayed By Millwrights

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Striking millwrights have come to terms with their employers, but there's no report of progress in negotiations between bricklayers and the Mason Contractors Association.

The millwright union, which joined several other unions in striking the construction industry June 1, negotiated a new contract for its 300 members Friday.

Terms were reported similar to the $1.51 hourly raise over three years obtained by the carpenters Wednesday.

The bricklayer union, representing about 1,200 men, has been meeting since Wednesday in negotiations set up by representatives of Gov. Shafer.

Bliss Approves Acquisition Of Gulf & Western

The offer calls for Gulf & Western to exchange one share of a new, $100, par, three and seven-eighths per cent, convertible, preferred stock for each three shares of Bliss common. The preferred stock would be convertible to Gulf & Western common at a rate of $62.50 per common share.

The Canton-based Bliss has a worldwide employment of about 7,500 and is engaged primarily in production of rolling mills, presses, can-making machinery and other industrial products.

Chance Pitches Twins Into First Place With No-Hitter

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The scene was so All-American that only the Fourth of July was missing. First place was at stake, there was a call from the vice president and even Dean Chance's mom was in the crowd.

Chance threw a no-hitter at Cleveland in the second game of a two-night doubleheader Friday that enabled Minnesota to sweep into first place in the American League.

'Was Lucky,' Says Chance Of No-Hitter

By CHARLES R. HORNICK
CLEVELAND (AP) — "I was just lucky," said Dean Chance Friday night after he pitched a no-hitter against the Cleveland Indians to give the Minnesota Twins a sweep of a doubleheader and put them in the American League lead.

"Sonny Siebert was pitching a good game, too, but there's a lot of luck in baseball and this happened to be my night," the 26-year-old right-hander told newsmen in the dressing room.

Siebert, who went eight innings against the Twins, was the only pitcher in the majors to hurl a no-hitter last season, blanking the Washington Senators, 3-0, at Cleveland Stadium June 10.

The no-hitter, his first of nine-inning duration in the majors, was only one of the thrills for Chance Friday night. His second came shortly after the game when he received a telephone call in the dressing room from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a Minnesotan and a Twins fan.

Asked what the vice president had to say, Chance replied: "He just wanted to congratulate us on two wins and me on the game I pitched."

The Twins won the nightcap 2-1 after taking the opener 6-5 in 10 innings.

Chance said he also was elated that his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Chance of Wooster, Ohio, were among the crowd that saw his performance.

"I know it sounds sort of corny, but my mother has been my greatest fan," Chance said. "I'm glad she was in the crowd."

The only run off him Friday night came on a wild pitch in the first inning after the Indians had loaded the bases on two walks and a fielding error.

Chance gave up three more walks after that, but two of the runners were erased on double plays and the other was forced at second.

He struck out eight in gaining his 17th victory in 26 decisions.

Japan, Chicago Meet Today In LL World Series

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — West Tokyo, Japan and North Roseland of Chicago meet today for the 21st Little League World Series championship with a one-hit, no-run pitcher opposing a no-hit, no-run pitcher.

Game time is 2 p. m.

The Japanese are counting on 12-year-old Masahiro Miyahara, who pitched his one-hitter Tuesday, plus a fine defense, to take the championship out of the United States for the first time in nine years. Mexico did it last in 1957-58.

North Roseland, the Northern Division champions, rely on the arm of 12-year-old Bob Stratta, an "A" student who has spent his spare time here collecting insects for a science course this fall. Stratta, a crew-cut youngster with ambitions of someday playing for the Chicago White Sox, pitched the eighth no-hit, no-run game in Little League Series history here Wednesday. He hasn't allowed an earned run in his last seven games.

West Tokyo reached the title game with victories over East Trail, Canada, and Newtown Edmont of Pennsylvania. North Roseland eliminated the U. S. Naval Station of Rota, Spain, and Linares, Mexico.

Only the score spoiled it; the Indians got a run without a hit in the first inning, and the Twins won 2-1. They took the opener 6-5.

Chance threw a hitless game earlier this month, but it was rained out after 4½ innings so it won't go into the record book. This one, though, was the real thing.

Hubert Humphrey, head of the Washington branch of the Minnesota fan club, was on the phone just after the game ended

Atlanta's Happy Marichal Is Back After 5-1 Victory

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Juan Marichal made his long awaited return, and the Atlanta Braves couldn't have been happier to see him.

The Dominican dandy, who has been plagued by a rash of injuries this season, made his first appearance since Aug. 1 for San Francisco and the Braves climbed all over him Friday night.

Marichal lasted just 4-2-3 innings, was tagged for 11 hits and four walks. He was charged with the loss in Atlanta's 5-1 victory, and it left his record at a rather unimpressive 14-10.

Elsewhere in the National League, streaking Philadelphia swept a two-night doubleheader from Pittsburgh 2-0 and 6-2 to move into fourth place, Cincinnati edged Houston 2-1 and Los Angeles split with St. Louis, winning 2-1 and then losing 4-1. Chicago's game at New York was rained out.

Woody Woodward and Bob

Uecker triggered a pair of two-run innings for the Braves with consecutive singles in the second and fifth.

Phil Niekro benefitted from a 13-hit Atlanta attack and won his ninth game with a six-hitter. Jim Bunning hurled his 37th career shutout and held Pittsburgh to six hits as the Phillies took the first game of the doubleheader. Johnny Briggs' seventh homer produced one of Philadelphia's runs.

In the nightcap, Chris Short won his first game since July 4 as the Phillies completed the sweep. Johnny Callison drove in two runs with a first inning double and then ignited a three-run fourth with a single.

The sweep gave the Phillies five straight victories.

Mel Queen throttled Houston on five hits until the eighth inning, and Ted Abernathy came out of the bullpen to finish up as Cincinnati shaded the Astros.

Queen, who won his 12th game, was forced to leave when his shoulder became sore in the eighth.

Vada Pinson tagged a home run for Cincinnati.

The Dodgers finally caught up with longtime nemesis Larry Jaster when they nipped the Cardinals in the first game of their doubleheader. Jaster had beaten Los Angeles six straight times—five of them consecutive shutouts last season.

Bill Singer, 9-4, won his seventh straight in the opener and touched off the Dodgers' winning rally with a sixth inning double. Willie Davis followed with a triple for one run and then Lou Johnson's sacrifice fly brought Davis home with the tie-breaking run.

Orlando Cepeda's fourth inning homer snapped a tie game in the nightcap and keyed the Cardinals to their victory. Al Jackson, 8-4, got late inning help from Jack Lamabe and Joe Hoerner to nail down the victory.

Namath's Other Knee May Hold Fate Of Jets

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — The success of the second operation on Joe Namath's right knee has enabled the New York Jets to expand their offense, but the lack of success with his left knee could restrict it hopelessly.

"The operation was a success," Jets' Coach Weeb Ewbank said, referring to last December's surgery. "His knee is the best it's ever been. We're able to move more because he's more mobile. We have more play action passes, rollouts and bootlegs."

But Ewbank was talking about his third year as a pro. The left knee suddenly presents another problem.

The knee first acted up several weeks ago during a practice session, but Namath was back to work the next day. Then last Saturday night, against Philadelphia, Namath left the game in the second quarter with a strained left knee.

The Jets brushed off the injury as nothing serious, but the situation could grow fatally serious if the problem pops up periodically. For without Namath, the Jets are nowhere near the contenders for the American Football League's Eastern Division title that they are with him.

If, on the other hand, Namath is able to go through the season with stable knees, the Jets conceivably could halt Buffalo's three-year Eastern championship streak.

New York should be better all around this season, particularly in its running attack now that Emerson Boozer is a fulltime member of the backfield.

As a rookie last year, Boozer was used sparingly until the second half of the season when he exploded so dynamically that he finished 10th among the league's rushers, averaging 4.69 yards a carry. Only Jim Nance and Mike Garrett exceeded that figure in the top 10.

Boozer's running mate is full-back Matt Snell, a double threat who was the only running back who finished in the top 10 in both rushing and pass receiving in 1966.

Snell, in fact, caught as many passes, 48, as flanker Don Maynard. Namath's primary receiver, however, is split end George Sauer, who battled the great Lance Alworth for the pass reception title last year before losing 73 to 63. Pete Lammons is the tight end.

The interior offensive line is a veteran quintet — tackles Winston Hill and Sherman Plunkett, guards Sam Deluca and Dave Herman and center John Schmitt.

The defensive front four is one of the best in the league with Gerry Phibbin and Verlon Biggs at the ends and Paul Rochester and Sam Harris at the tackles. The linebacking trio of Larry Grantham, Al Atkinson and Ralph Baker is better than average.

Murray Warmath is heading for his 14th season as football coach at Minnesota.

Rain Delays Classic At Westchester

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — The Westchester Country Club reeks of money—old, quiet, comfortable money.

So it may be appropriate that the club is playing host to the world's richest medal play golf tournament, the rain-delayed Westchester Classic, with one-quarter of a million dollars up for grabs.

And it's very natural that with that huge purse in the offing, the tournament has drawn one of the finest fields ever assembled for a tournament, a field that cooled its collective heels in and around the plush club Friday while a steady rain washed out play.

The second round, weather permitting, now is scheduled today and Monday. If a playoff is necessary, it will be sudden death beginning immediately after regulation play Monday.

There was even more of a strain Friday, with players and reporters standing around with nothing to do but wonder if the rain was going to lift.

Gary Player of South Africa, second-year pro Jim Colbert of Kansas City, and Mason Rudolph shared the first round lead at 66, six under par for the 6,573 yard course.

One stroke back in the field of 154 of the world's best shotmakers were U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus, Bob Charles of New Zealand and John Schlee, all at 67.

Locked at 68 were Lee Trevino, Frank Beard, Dave Hill and Sam Snead. Arnold Palmer and British Open champion Roberto de Vicenzo were in group of 10 at 69.

Activity Cards Offered Students At Midland High

A student activity card will be sold this year for 15 sports events at Lincoln High School, Midland, Vic Martinetti, athletic director, has announced.

The card will cost $5 and will admit a student to five home football games and 10 home basketball games.

They may be paid for when purchased, or a student may make a first payment of $2 by Sept. 8 and a second payment of $3 by Dec. 1, Martinetti said.

The cards may be obtained during the first week of school at the athletic department ticket booth. Students are asked to make their checks or money orders payable to "Midland High School Athletic Department."

Students who do not purchase activity cards will pay a 50-cent admission fee at the gate, Martinetti said.

Alex Agase is preparing for his fourth season as coach of Northwestern's football forces.

Boston jumped all over Gary Peters in the first game in Chicago and George Scott pounded out four hits. Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith each had two. Jim Lonborg picked up his 17th victory.

In the nightcap, Ken Berry drove in the winning run for the White Sox with a single. Berry had homered in the sixth to give Chicago a 1-0 lead, but Smith tied the game in the eighth with a run-scoring single. Each club is now half a game behind the Twins.

Detroit got six-hit pitching from rookie John Hiller and homers from Dick McAuliffe, Bill Freehan and Eddie Mathews. The Tigers are in fourth place, 1½ games out.

Bob Tillman drove in three runs for the Yankees in the first game, and Mel Stottlemyre, 13-10, was the winner. The Yanks scored on a passed ball and Bill Robinson's single to win the nightcap.

Browns Drop Exhibition Game With Atlanta 34-31

ATLANTA (AP)—The Cleveland Browns are still without an exhibition victory after dropping a 34-31 decision to the Atlanta Falcons Friday night.

Cleveland beat Atlanta by lopsided scores in an exhibition contest and a regular season game last year, but the Falcons weren't to be denied Friday.

They rode the passing arm of Randy Johnson to a 21-point lead and then snuffed the Browns' comeback bid with a fourth-quarter outburst to remain undefeated with two victories and a tie.

Cleveland had lost previously to Philadelphia, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Johnson threw touchdown passes to Tom Moore, Taz Anderson and Ron Smith before the Browns scored late in the second quarter on a 49-yard pass from Frank Ryan to Paul Warfield.

Cleveland added to touchdowns in the last five minutes of the game, with Elroy Kelly plunging over from the two following an interception of a pass and again from the three following an Atlanta fumble.

Chance Pitches Twins Into First Place With No-Hitter

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The scene was so All-American that only the Fourth of July was missing. First place was at stake, there was a call from the vice president and even Dean Chance's mom was in the crowd.

'Was Lucky,' Says Chance Of No-Hitter

By CHARLES R. KORNICK
CLEVELAND (AP) — "I was just lucky," said Dean Chance Friday night after he pitched a no-hitter against the Cleveland Indians to give the Minnesota Twins a sweep of a doubleheader and put them in the American League lead.

"Sonny Siebert was pitching a good game, too, but there's a lot of luck in baseball and this happened to be my night," the 26-year-old right-hander told newsmen in the dressing room.

Siebert, who went eight innings against the Twins, was the only pitcher in the majors to hurl a no-hitter last season, blanking the Washington Senators, 2-0, at Cleveland Stadium June 10.

The no-hitter, his first of nine-inning duration in the majors, was only one of the thrills for Chance Friday night. His second came shortly after the game when he received a telephone call in the dressing room from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a Minnesotan and a Twins fan.

Asked what the vice president had to say, Chance replied: "He just wanted to congratulate us on two wins and me on the game I pitched."

The Twins won the nightcap 2-1 after taking the opener 6-5 in 10 innings.

Chance said he also was elated that his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Chance of Wooster, Ohio, were among the crowd that saw his performance.

"I know it sounds sort of corny, but my mother has been my greatest fan," Chance said. "I'm glad she was in the crowd."

The only run off him Friday night came on a wild pitch in the first inning after the Indians had loaded the bases on two walks and a fielding error.

Chance gave up three more walks after that, but two of the runners were erased on double plays and the other was forced at second.

He struck out eight in gaining his 17th victory in 26 decisions.

Japan, Chicago Meet Today In LL World Series

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—West Tokyo, Japan and North Roseland of Chicago meet today for the 21st Little League World Series championship with a one-hit, no-run pitcher opposing a no-hit, no-run pitcher.

Game time is 2 p. m. The Japanese are counting on 12-year-old Masahiro Miyahara, who pitched his one-hitter Tuesday, plus a fine defense, to take the championship out of the United States for the first time in nine years. Mexico did it last in 1957-58.

North Roseland, the Northern Division champions, rely on the arm of 12-year-old Bob Stratta, an "A" student who has spent his spare time here collecting insects for a science course this fall. Stratta, a crew-cut young star with ambitions of someday playing for the Chicago White Sox, pitched the eighth no-hit, no-run game in Little League Series history here Wednesday. He hasn't allowed an earned run in his last seven games.

West Tokyo reached the title game with victories over Estel Trail, Canada, and Newtown-Edmont of Pennsylvania. North Roseland eliminated the U. S. Naval Station of Rota, Spain, and Linares, Mexico.

Only the score spoiled it; the Indians got a run without a hit in the first inning, and the Twins won 2-1. They took the opener 6-5.

Chance threw a hitless game earlier this month, but it was rained out after 4½ innings so it won't go into the record book. This one, though, was the real thing.

Hubert Humphrey, head of the Washington branch of the Minnesota fan club, was on the phone just after the game ended and had some nice things to say to the 26-year-old right-hander. And Dean's folks had driven up from their home in Wooster, Ohio, some 50 miles south of Cleveland.

Lead By Half; Chisox, Bosox Split

Elsewhere in a full American League schedule, Boston and Chicago split 7-1 and 1-2, Detroit blanked Kansas City 3-0 and New York took two games from Washington 7-5 and 2-1. The California-Baltimore doubleheader was rained out.

Chance struck out eight, but gave up five walks and two of those were what helped the Indians to their run. Lee Maye and Vic Davalillo led off the first with walks and an error by Cesar Tovar loaded the bases. Maye then scored on a wild pitch.

The Twins scored in the second off Sonny Siebert when Tony Oliva singled and scored all the way from first on Harmon Killebrew's single. Tovar scored on a balk with the winning run in the sixth.

In the first game Oliva scored on Killebrew's triple in the 10th and Sandy Valdespino drove in Harmon with a sacrifice fly. Joe Azcue homered in the bottom of the inning for the Indians.

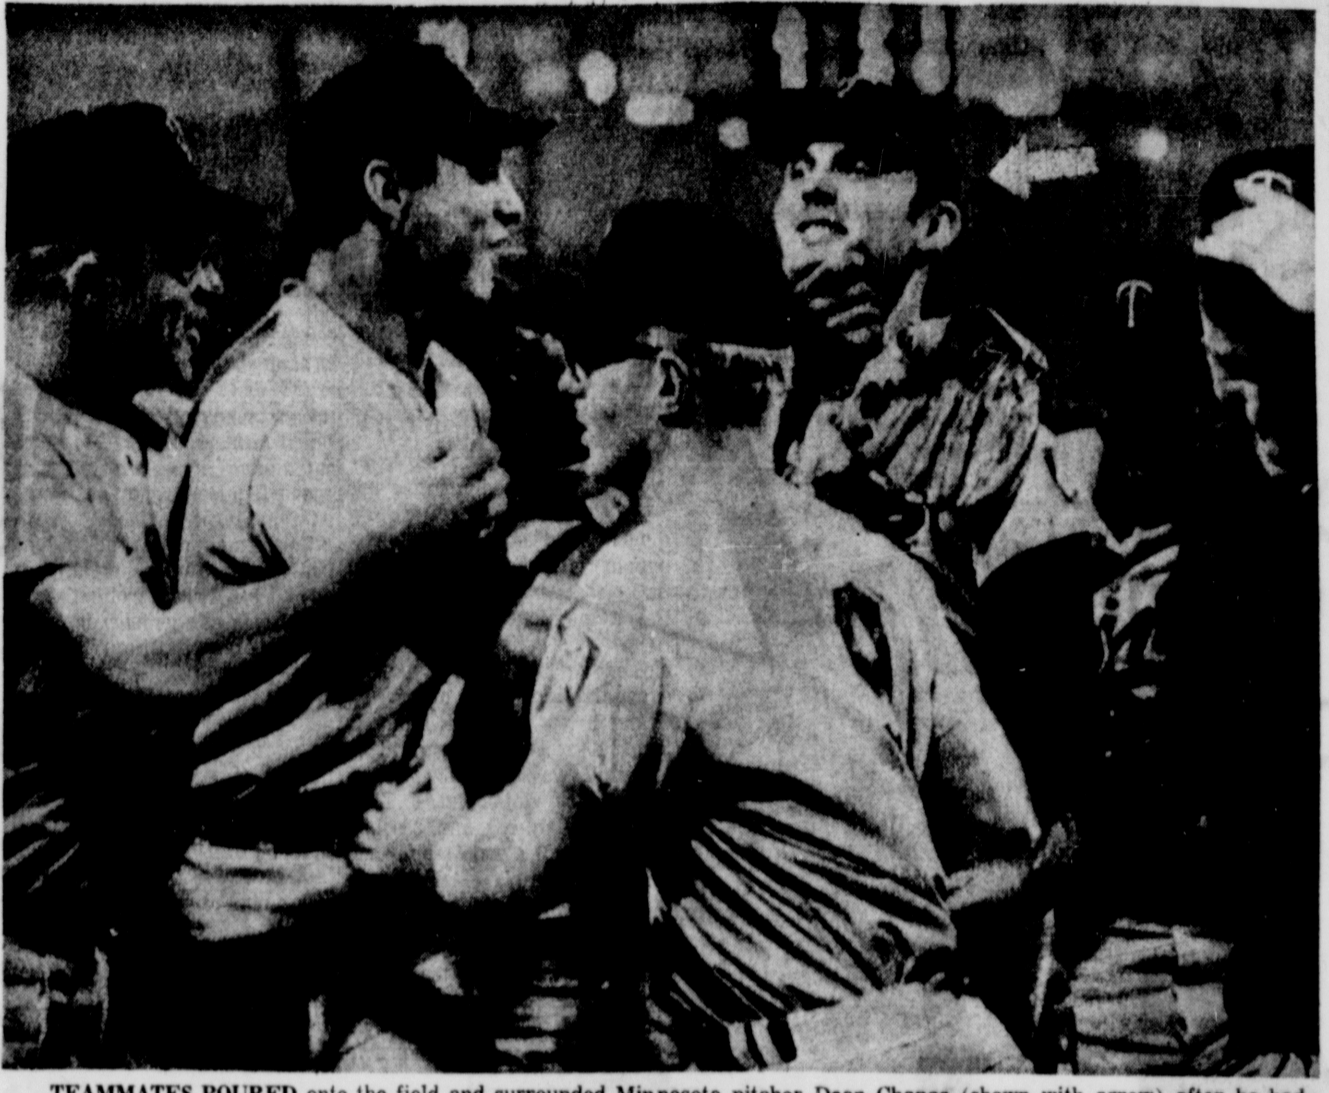

Boston jumped all over Gary Peters in the first game in Chicago and George Scott pounded out four hits. Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith each had two. Jim Lonborg picked up his 17th victory.

In the nightcap, Ken Berry drove in the winning run for the White Sox with a single. Berry had homered in the sixth to give Chicago a 1-0 lead, but Smith tied the game in the eighth with a run-scoring single. Each club

The card will cost $5 and will admit a student to five home football games and 10 home basketball games.

They may be paid for when purchased, or a student may make a first payment of $2 by Sept. 8 and a second payment of $3 by Dec. 1, Martinetti said.

The cards may be obtained during the first week of school at the athletic department ticket booth. Students are asked to make their checks or money orders payable to "Midland High School Athletic Department."

Students who do not purchase activity cards will pay a 50-cent admission fee at the gate, Martinetti said.

Browns Drop Exhibition Game With Atlanta 34-31

ATLANTA (AP)—The Cleveland Browns are still without an exhibition victory after dropping a 34-31 decision to the Atlanta Falcons Friday night.

Cleveland beat Atlanta by lopsided scores in an exhibition contest and a regular season game last year, but the Falcons weren't to be denied Friday.

They rode the passing arm of Randy Johnson to a 21-point lead and then snuffed the Browns' comeback bid with a fourth-quarter outburst to remain undefeated with two victories and a tie.

Cleveland had lost previously to Philadelphia, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Johnson threw touchdown passes to Tom Moore, Taz Anderson and Ron Smith before the Browns scored late in the second quarter on a 49-yard pass from Frank Ryan to Paul Warfield.

Cleveland added to touchdowns in the last five minutes of the game, with Elroy Kelly plunging over from the two following an interception of a pass and again from the three following an Atlanta fumble.

Wheeling Opens Grid Loop Play

CHARLESTON (AP) — Both Charleston's Rockets and Wheeling's Ironmen will open their Continental Football League season schedules tonight.

The Rockets face Orlando here in what promises to be a prime attraction for CFL fans, and the Ironmen travel to Hartford.

A third CFL game pits Toronto against Akron on the Ohio team's home field.

Ray Nagel of Iowa is starting his second season as Iowa football coach.

Broncos Make Progress Under Coach Lou Saban

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
DENVER (AP) — Apparently, whatever Lou Saban, Lou gets.

Lou is Lou Saban, the new general manager-coach of the Denver Broncos, and just three weeks ago he said:

"Sid has what I want." Less than two weeks later, Saban had what Sid Gillman, general manager and coach of the San Diego Chargers, had and what Lou wanted — quarterback Steve Tensi.

Saban wanted Tensi because neither of his quarterbacks, Scotty Glacken and Max Chohan, had convinced him that they were ready to solve the quarterback problems of the Broncos who had a 4-10 record last year.

Saban had to give Sid Denver's No. 1 draft choice for the next two years, but the Bronco boss already has a lot of youngsters, and he needed a quarterback to become competitive with the rest of the American Football League's Western Division.

That Tensi can assist Saban as a junior partner in miracle making became obvious only three days after the third-year pro joined the Broncos.

Coming off the bench, Tensi fired the Broncos to a 14-9 triumph over Minnesota, their second victory in two games against National League opponents. No other AFL team can make that statement.

Tensi is part of the new image Saban has been working on since he returned to the AFL after a year's hiatus at the University of Maryland.

"We had to create a new image," Saban said. "They've had problems here, and they haven't been able to win. We may not win any more, but we're not going to lose with the same faces."

That's for sure.

Since taking over, Saban has dealt away nine players while acquiring 13.

Gone are such faces as receiver Lionel Taylor, running back Abner Haynes and line-backer John Bramlett. Chohan also was released. Arrived are other faces such as Cookie Gilchrist, Dave Costa, Rec Mirich and Ernie Park.

Other additions include the best rookie crop the Broncos ever have had — Floyd Little, Pete Duranko, Tom Beer, George Goeddeke and Mike Current, among others.

Little is battling Charlie Mitchell for the running back spot, while Gilchrist, a fullback for Saban when they were at Buffalo, could win that job from Wendell Hayes.

Beer takes over at tight end which was left vacant when Al Denison switched to flanker.

Mirich, Current, Park and Goeddeke could become fixtures in the interior of the offensive line, and Costa, Duranko and rookie John Huard will help the defense which also includes returning backs Lonnie Wright, Goldie Sellers and Nemiah Wilson.

Saban is particularly concerned with the lines.

"You can't throw passes, and you can't stop anyone from throwing passes unless you have the lines," he said. "We went to the lines first. That was the reason for some of the trades."

"But we're also counting on our young players. We're starting with them. If we find something better, we'll make a change."

Saban, however, is mostly interested in making a change in the fortunes of the Broncos.

Hopeful Run To End Meet At Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — When Thomas LeClair took a colt by the name of Subpet out of the Florida auction of 2-year-olds last January for $14,500 he knew he was getting a horse that was not staked in many of the rich races for juveniles.

But he also knew that if the son of Petare-Subgal proved worthy he could be made eligible by paying a supplementary fee. Subpet did his part by indicating his quality in taking the Rancocas at Gate State in the spring and looked even better in winning the Great American at Aqueduct.

So when the $100,000-added Sapling at Monmouth Park rolled around on Aug. 5, LeClair had no qualms about forking over $10,000 to make his colt eligible. Subpet again won, earning $72,423 and boosting his record to five victories, one second and two thirds in 10 starts.

The same condition prevailed for today's $75,000-added Hopeful, which also includes returning Subpet.

The supplementary entry fee was $7,500.

LeClair paid the amount Friday and Subpet joined eight others of his age in the 6½ furlong dash. The track handicapper promptly made him the 2-1 choice even though he drew No. 1 post position. Normally that is good but Subpet is not a fast starter and could well find himself shuffled back as such speedsters as Exclusive Native, What a Pleasure and Papp Steve battle for the early lead.

Subpet already has won $117,410. A victory in the Hopeful, with nine starters, would be worth $174,084 of the gross purse of $113,975.

What a Pleasure, beaten by Subpet in the stretch of the Sapling, has been made the 5-2 second choice with Exclusive Native next in line at 3-1. Pappa Steve was quoted at 5-1.

Broncos Make Progress Under Coach Lou Saban

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
DENVER (AP) — Apparently, whatever Lou wants, Lou gets.

Lou is Lou Saban, the new general manager-coach of the Denver Broncos, and just three weeks ago he said:

"Sid has what I want."

Less than two weeks later, Saban had what Sid Gillman, general manager and coach of the San Diego Chargers, had and what Lou wanted — quarterback Steve Tensi.

Saban wanted Tensi because neither of his quarterbacks, Scotty Glacken and Max Chochoian, had convinced him that they were ready to solve the quarterback problems of the Broncos who had a 4-10 record last year.

Saban had to give Sid Denver's No. 1 draft choices for the next two years, but the Broncos boss already has a lot of youngsters, and he needed a quarterback to become competitive with the rest of the American Football League's Western Division.

That Tensi can assist Saban as a junior partner in miracle making became obvious only three days after the third-year pro joined the Broncos.

Coming off the bench, Tensi fired the Broncos to a 14-9 triumph over Minnesota, their second victory in two games against National League opponents. No other AFL team can make that statement.

Tensi is part of the new image Saban has been working on since he returned to the AFL after a year's hiatus at the University of Maryland.

"We had to create a new image," Saban said. "They've had problems here, and they haven't been able to win. We may not win any more, but we're not going to lose with the same faces."

That's for sure.

Since taking over, Saban has dealt away nine players while acquiring 13.

Gone are such faces as receiver Lionel Taylor, running back Abner Haynes and line-backer John Bramlett, Chobioan also was released. Arrived are other faces such as Cookie Gilchrist, Dave Costa, Rec Mirich and Ernie Park.

Other additions include the best rookie crop the Broncos ever have had — Floyd Little, Pete Duranko, Tom Beer, George Goeddeke and Mike Current, among others.

Little is battling Charlie Mitchell for the running back spot, while Gilchrist, a fullback for Saban when they were at Buffalo, could win that job from Wendell Hayes.

Beer takes over at tight end which was left vacant when Al Denson switched to flanker.

Mirich, Current, Park and Goeddeke could become fixtures in the interior of the offensive line, and Costa, Duranko and rookie John Huard will help the defense which also includes returning backs Lonnie Wright, Goldie Sellers and Nemiah Wilson.

Saban is particularly concerned with the lines.

"You can't throw passes, and you can't stop anyone from throwing passes unless you have the lines," he said. "We went to the lines first. That was the reason for some of the trades."

"But we're also counting on our young players. We're starting with them. If we find something better, we'll make a change."

Saban, however, is mostly interested in making a change in the fortunes of the Broncos.

Hopeful Run To End Meet At Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — When Thomas LeClair took a colt by the name of Subpet out of the Florida auction of 2-year-olds last January for $14,500 he knew he was getting a horse that was not staked in many of the rich races for juveniles.

But he also knew that if the son of Petare-Subgal proved worthy he could be made eligible by paying a supplementary fee. Subpet did his part by indicating his quality in taking the Rancocas at Garen State in the spring and looked even better in winning the Great American at Aqueduct.

So when the $100,000-added Sapling at Monmouth Park rolled around on Aug. 5, LeClair had no qualms about forking over $10,000 to make his colt eligible. Subpet again won, earning $72,423 and boosting his record to five victories, one second and two thirds in 10 starts.

The same condition prevailed for today's $75,000-added Hopeful winding up a four-week meeting at Saratoga race track. Subpet was not originally nominated. The supplementary entry fee was $7,500.

LeClair paid the amount Friday and Subpet joined eight others of his age in the 6 1/2 furlong dash. The track handicapper promptly made him the 2-1 choice even though he drew No. 1 post position. Normally that is good but Subpet is not a fast starter and could well find himself shuffled back as such speedsters as Exclusive Native, What a Pleasure and Papp Steve battle for the early lead.

Subpet already has won $117,410. A victory in the Hopeful, with nine starters, would be worth $74,084 of the gross purse of $113,975.

What a Pleasure, beaten by Subpet in the stretch of the Sapling, has been made the 5-2 second choice with Exclusive Native next in line at 3-1. Pappa Steve was quoted at 5-1.

The others—Wise Exchange, Beau Marker, Skookum, Royal Trace and Forward Pass—are strictly outsiders.

Australian Duo Leading In Marathon Net Match

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Australia's Roy Emerson and Brazil's Ronnie Barnes had some unfinished business to complete today before turning over the Longwood Courts for the start of semifinal action in the 87th U.S. National Doubles Tennis Championships.

Emerson and Barnes, the third-seeded foreign entry, were set for the start of the 96th game in their marathon quarter-final match with South Africa's Cliff Drysdale and Ray Moore, a recent pickup team ignored in the seedings.

With Emerson and Barnes leading 31-29, 6-8, 6-3 and the fourth set even 6-all, rain ended darkness forced a halt in play Friday. They were only 10 games shy of equalling the long-est match in the U.S. doubles history.

The winner of the match will advance to a semifinal meeting Sunday with Aussies John Newcombe and Tony Roche, the top-seeded foreigners.

Australia's No. 2 seed, William Bowrey and Owen Davidson, were to face top-seeded Americans Clark Graebner and Marty Riessen in today's semifinal. Bowrey and Davidson swept past Mexico's Joaquin Lovo-Mayo and Marcelo Lara 6-1, 11-9, 16-14 Friday.

Wimbledon champions Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals were to play Pat Walkden of Rhodesia and Annette Van Zyl of South Africa in the women's first semifinal.

Third-seeded Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis and Donna Fales meet British Wightman Cup players Winnie Shaw and Joyce Williams in a semifinal Sunday.

Illinois Man Hits Perfect Shoot Score

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—Herman Welch, a congenial 46-year-old General Motors foreman who loves to shoot, figures it cost him $800 to spend nine days here for the Grand American Trapshoot.

A resident of Downers Grove, Ill., Welch was an estimated $12,000 richer after he cracked 100 targets from 20 1/2 yards Friday in the Grand American Handicap trapshooting premiere event.

"It's a wonderful feeling, 100 in this event. And the prize money isn't bad either, it will pay for a lot of shooting," Welch said.

The Illinois gunner, trapshooting for only four years and competing in his first Grand, used a Winchester model 12 to ring up his perfect score.

He credited a new trigger and his wife for the victory.

"My shooting was so bad a year ago that I switched to a recoil release trigger. I started showing improvement and broke 100 straight from 16 yards at the Illinois State Shoot last June.

"My wife, Lorraine, encouraged me to come here and try my luck."

And he had to outgun 2,928 sharpshooters who competed in the Grand. That represented a drop of 536 shooters from last year's event.

There was a five-way tie for runnerup honors at 9. Paul Spangler of Decatur, Ind., shooting from 25 1/2 yards, made a strong bid to the Welch—but missed his 81st target.

The other 99s were posted by Kinzy Smith, Point Pleasant, W. Va.; Kyle Snowhill, Quincy, Ill.; Sam Knott, Kansas City, Mo., and Calvin Allen, Hamilton, Ohio.

Last year's champ, Delbert Grim of Lincoln, Neb., scored a 90 shooting from 25 yards. No one has ever won the Grand twice.

King Noble Crushes Foes In Scioto Pace

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — King Noble crushed his opposition Friday night in Scioto Downs' $7,375 Scarlet and Gray Cup Series for 3-year-old pacers with a convincing 9 1/4 length victory.

King Noble posted his fourth victory of the year and returned $4, $2.80, and $2.40.

Second was Swinging Time, paying $3 and $2.40, and More Time paid $2.40 to show. Hairy Gene and My Scotch Song (6-5) paid a daily double of $12.

Willie Stargell's 33 home runs in 1966 were a new high for a Pirate left-handed batter.

WURLITZER

MUSIC LABORATORY

NEW Music Learning Center

...a Modern Breakthrough in Piano Instruction

"I LIKE THE EARPHONES"

Teacher, or "pilot," speaks into earphones. "Cadets, fasten your earphones" ... and the youngsters learn action on their Electronic Pianos. Enthusiasm is contagious and excitement runs high.

"I LIKE THE SOUND"

Children like playing on Electronic Pianos — the touch and response, the way the volume can be regulated, the fact that the pianos are electronic. The Space Age instrument is for them!

"WE LIKE PLAYING TOGETHER"

Just as in arithmetic and language classes, children like studying together. And desire for group approval encourages the development of perseverance and concentration.

"AS A TEACHER, I LIKE THE WURLITZER ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATION CENTER"

This monitoring system enables the teacher to communicate verbally and musically with individuals or groups through earphones. Now youngsters can learn music with the new, accelerated group method—including sight reading, improvising melodies, even composing — AND ALSO ENJOY THE BENEFITS OF INDIVIDUAL INSTRUCTION.

IT'S HERE NOW IN EAST LIVERPOOL

See with your own eyes the youngsters' enthusiasm ... their concentration ... the way they learn MUSIC.

NEXT CLASSES START (DATE)

Classes are scheduled by semesters and beginner classes start (DATE). The fee is nominal, including lesson materials, payable monthly if you desire. Auditions are currently being conducted for the next semester scheduled to begin: SOON To enroll your child, phone 385-1622.

MICRO-ORGANISM

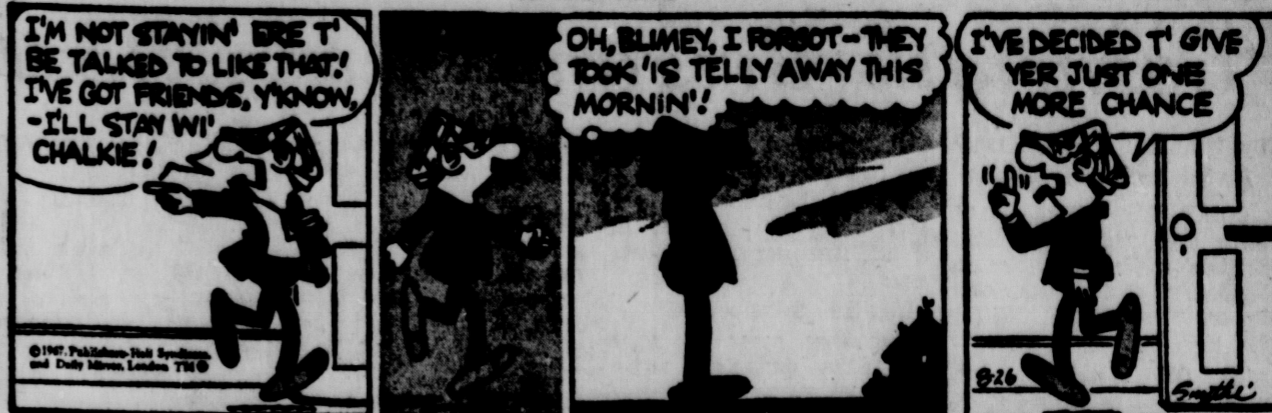

QUESTION: How does one take photographs of micro-organisms?

ANSWER: A micro-organism is a living thing so small as not to be visible to the naked eye. We must use a microscope to see it. In our picture, Howard shows the principle of how scientists go about photographing such minute objects. To make a photograph, one must have a camera. But in order to see a microscopic object, one must have a microscope; Howard is holding one up. Using the human eye, an observer looking through a microscope can see a tiny cell or other minute object very clearly. To photograph it, all he has to do is to substitute a camera for his eye. Of course, this is a very particular job, for which special equipment must be used. Below, Howard shows special equipment used for photomicrography. The camera is one made for just this purpose. You can tell it's a camera by the familiar bellows. It is mounted on a stand which holds it above the microscope, the lens of the camera joining the microscope's eyepiece. To the right of the camera is a special arc lamp which is able to furnish the very brilliant illumination needed. In the circle is an example of the kind of picture one can take with apparatus of this kind.

Although Fading Some In Assembly

'Cornstalk Brigade' Isn't 'Dead'

By WILLIAM V. MERRIMAN
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — "If there ever was a 'Cornstalk Brigade' riding through this legislature," intoned State Sen. Robert E. Stockdale, R-Kent, "let it forever rest in peace."

The Ohio Senate promptly voted 32-0 to create a Department of Urban Affairs.

Did the cornstalkers, the Ohio legislature's faded rural bloc, really meet their end in the reapportioned 107th Ohio General Assembly?

THEIR RANKS were thinner, no doubt. By one estimate their numbers dropped to 32 from 72 two years ago.

Undoubtedly, too, they lost some skirmishes the last eight months here.

Remnants of the brigade couldn't hold off the urban drive for statewide daylight time.

Nor were they effective in blocking the permissive county tax plan, a big-county idea.

They suffered their usual rout in a battle to set milk price controls.

And they let a major annexation measure through for the first time in 12 years.

BUT DON'T sound "Taps" just yet.

Rural legislators finally got their way on the personal property tax, long abhorrent to farmers. The tax on farm crops, equipment and livestock was repealed—completely.

And they kept Sunday liquor sales, a big city perennial, out of the state for another two years.

Why the staying power?

The reason never was more obvious than during a House donnybrook over an increase in a special state subsidy to school districts with high numbers of disadvantaged youth — primarily city core areas.

REPRESENTATIVES from metropolitan districts went for the $8 million increase, 20-3. A major portion of the additional funds, of course, would have gone to big city school districts.

Those representing rural constituencies opposed it, 24-14. Something of a standoff.

But the amendment to increase the subsidy tumbled, 47-45.

Why? Because the "Crabgrass Brigade," the suburban lawmakers, came to the Cornstalkers' rescue, 18-13.

Underrepresented in the past legislatures, suburbia picked up some 31 seats in the House after reapportionment.

SUBURBAN districts would have benefited even less than rural areas from a hike in the special subsidy, based on the number of students from families supported by Aid to Dependent Children (ADC).

So the new suburban voice was heard.

It wasn't strong enough in the north to get its own way very often, as evidenced by its failure to push through a bill requiring cities to return 25 per cent of their income taxes to their suburbs.

But it couldn't be ignored, by anyone.

FOR INSTANCE, the Crabgrassers joined with their big city neighbors to kill the slow time move, but backed their rural neighbors on Sunday liquor sales.

True, these were alliances of convenience, obviously not of permanence.

But one thing is certain: Crabgrass-Cornstalk coalition on several issues toppled hopes from some corners that this would be the year of the city in the General Assembly.

The cities didn't get the limit on their income tax without a vote of the people increased from 1 per cent to 1.5 per cent. Nor did they push through a bill lifting the maximum of $1,000 per municipal purchase without competitive bidding.

THEY DIDN'T get the statutory limits on municipal debt raised.

They failed to pass legislation permitting a simple majority approval for general obligation bond issues.

They couldn't remove the time limits on voted operating levies.

And they had no success increasing from $24 million to $30 million the state sales tax allocation to the local government fund.

So maybe, as Stockdale suggested, the Cornstalk Brigade is fading — if it ever did dominate the Ohio Legislature.

But a 33-week o-round here left indisputable the fact Big City lawmakers aren't going to be riding roughshod for awhile.

SPEAKER John L. Stickle of Charlotte, N. C., past international president, will be among the speakers at the fall conference of District 29-L of Lions International at Sistersville, W. Va., today.

Ware Released After Minister Posts His Bond

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Negro minister posted $5,000 bond for George Washington Ware Friday night, hours after a judge delayed until Monday a ruling on whether the Black Power leader was being held illegally on a state sedition charge.

Ware, 27, a field worker for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, walked from metropolitan jail after the Rev. Andrew White filed the porperty bond.

Ware was jailed Tuesday on a warrant sworn out by attorneys Jack Kershaw and Charles Galbreath who said they acted as private citizens. He was charged under a 100-year-old law making it illegal to advocate the overthrow of the state or federal government by violence, or to belong to any organization preaching such doctrine. State attorneys have indicated they will prosecute Ware.

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Roland E. Long, a sharpshooting physician from Columbus, Ohio, Friday shattered $3 of 100 clay birds from 21½ yards to capture the American Medical Shoot and Trap Association's handicap.

Pet Milk Store Will Get Permit

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A store selling milk as pet food has qualified for a county health permit.

The C & D Budget Dairy in the West End started selling milk in containers Friday and Dr. Frank R. Clack, acting director of the Allegheny County Health Department, said the store has met all health requirements. He said the operators may pick up a permit Monday.

At the same time, the six farmers running the cut-rate outfit said the state Agriculture Department is using "undercover pressure" to cut off the supply of milk to the store.

One of them, Ernest Hayes, said, "When we first started planning this operation, a number of small milk-juggling firms offered to pasteurize and bottle the milk for us. But when we were ready, the jugglers told us that the state Department of Agriculture had threatened them with the loss of their licenses if they furnish us with milk."

"We can't blame the jugglers," Hayes added. "Without a license they can't do business."

The store is selling milk for 79 cents a gallon, which is 29 cents below the price set by the state Milk Control Commission.

Steak House Levelled By Blast And Flames

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A mighty explosion and fire demolished the popular Steak House Restaurant early today.

The blast ripped apart the Peters Township building, hurling debris over the area.

Firemen quickly put out the fire which followed the blast. The cause of the explosion was not learned immediately.

The restaurant had been closed for several weeks and there was no report of injuries.

On Loaded Weapons In Riots

Guard's Policies Differ

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Guard apparently has no clear-cut policy on whether Guardsmen assigned to riot duty should carry loaded weapons.

A House Armed Services subcommittee examining the Guard's ability to deal with civil disorders has received widely differing views from individual state commanders.

Guardsmen used in the Newark and Detroit riots used loaded guns, although in Detroit the order was later countermanded by the regular Army in Milwaukee and Cambridge,

Md., Guardsmen were not permitted to load their weapons without specific authority.

At the subcommittee's hearing Friday, Michigan Guard officials bitterly criticized the federal order to unload weapons in Detroit. The order was issued by Lt. Gen. John L. Throckmorton, who arrived with 5,000 federal troops to take command in Detroit about 30 hours after the Guard was called in.

Maj. Gen. Cecil Simmons, the Guard commander who was in charge until Throckmorton took over, said his original order for dealing with looting was to use as much force as necessary "and if they can't be stopped any other way, shoot."

Simmons said Throckmorton told him "it was better to let a man get away with a few dollars worth of equipment than to shoot him."

In an earlier appearance before the subcommittee, Throckmorton said he ordered the Guardsmen's guns unloaded because they were nervous and trigger-happy and he didn't want innocent people killed.

Simmons and Michigan Adjutant General Clarence G. Schnipke expressed strong resentment at Throckmorton's charge, and other criticism by regular Army officers that the Guardsmen were sloppy and unsoldierly.

Schnipke said the Guardsmen had been on duty 30 to 36 hours when Throckmorton first saw them and had come directly from field maneuvers 220 miles away.

Both Guard officials said if Throckmorton's no-shooting order had been in effect in the first stages of the rioting the Detroit looting would have been much more widespread.

So maybe, as Stockdale suggested, the Cornstalk Brigade is fading — if it ever did dominate the Ohio Legislature.
But a 33-week o-round here left indisputable the fact Big City lawmakers aren't going to be riding roughshod for awhile.

On Loaded Weapons In Riots

Guard's Policies Differ

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Guard apparently has no clear-cut policy on whether Guardsmen assigned to riot duty should carry loaded weapons.
A House Armed Services subcommittee examining the Guard's ability to deal with civil disorders has received widely differing views from individual state commanders.
Guardsmen used in the Newark and Detroit riots used loaded guns, although in Detroit the order was later countermanded by the regular Army in Milwaukee and Cambridge,

Md., Guardsmen were not permitted to load their weapons without specific authority.
At the subcommittee's hearing Friday, Michigan Guard officials bitterly criticized the federal order to unload weapons in Detroit. The order was issued by Lt. Gen. John L. Throckmorton, who arrived with 5,000 federal troops to take command in Detroit about 30 hours after the Guard was called in.
Maj. Gen. Cecil Simmons, the Guard commander who was in charge until Throckmorton took over, said his original order for dealing with looting was to use as much force as necessary "and if they can't be stopped any other way, shoot."

Simmons said Throckmorton told him "it was better to let a man get away with a few dollars worth of equipment than to shoot him."
In an earlier appearance before the subcommittee, Throckmorton said he ordered the Guardsmen's guns unloaded because they were nervous and trigger-happy and he didn't want innocent people killed.
Simmons and Michigan Adjutant General Clarence G. Schnipke expressed strong resentment at Throckmorton's charge, and other criticism by regular Army officers that the Guardsmen were sloppy and unsoldierly.

Ware Released After Minister Posts His Bond

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Negro minister posted $5,000 bond for George Washington Ware Friday night, hours after a judge delayed until Monday a ruling on whether the Black Power leader was being held illegally on a state sedition charge.
Ware, 27, a field worker for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, walked from metropolitan jail after the Rev. Andrew White filed the property bond.

Ware was jailed Tuesday on a warrant sworn out by attorneys Jack Kershaw and Charles Galbreath who said they acted as private citizens. He was charged under a 109-year-old law making it illegal to advocate the overthrow of the state or federal government by violence, or to belong to any organization preaching such doctrine. State attorneys have indicated they will prosecute Ware.
